This Transcript has not been proof read or corrected. It is a working tool for the Tribunal for use in preparing its judgment. It will be placed on the Tribunal Website for readers to see how matters were conducted at the public hearing of these proceedings and is not to be relied on or cited in the context of any other proceedings. The Tribunal's judgment in this matter will be the final and definitive record.

IN THE COMPETITION APPEAL TRIBUNAL

Victoria House, Bloomsbury Place, London WC1A 2EB Case Nos. 1160-65/1/1/10

8 April 2011

Before:

VIVIEN ROSE (Chairman) DR ADAM SCOTT OBE TD DAVID SUMMERS OBE

Sitting as a Tribunal in England and Wales

BETWEEN:

(1) IMPERIAL TOBACCO GROUP PLC(2) IMPERIAL TOBACCO LIMITED

Appellants

- v -

OFFICE OF FAIR TRADING

Respondent

CO-OPERATIVE GROUP LIMITED

Appellant

Respondent

- V -

OFFICE OF FAIR TRADING

WM MORRISON SUPERMARKETS PLC

Appellant [Variable]

- v -

OFFICE OF FAIR TRADING

Respondent

(1) SAFEWAY STORES LIMITED(2) SAFEWAY LIMITED

Appellants

- V -

OFFICE OF FAIR TRADING

Respondent

(1) ASDA STORES LIMITED (2) ASDA GROUP LIMITED (3) WAL-MART STORES (UK) LIMITED (4) BROADSTREET GREAT WILSON EUROPE LIMITED

Appellants

OFFICE OF FAIR TRADING

- v -

Respondent

(1) SHELL UK LIMITED(2) SHELL UK OIL PRODUCTS LIMITED(3) SHELL HOLDINGS (UK) LIMITED

Appellants

- V -

OFFICE OF FAIR TRADING

Respondent

Transcribed from tape by Beverley F. Nunnery & Co. Official Shorthand Writers and Tape Transcribers Quality House, Quality Court, Chancery Lane, London WC2A 1HP Tel: 020 7831 5627 Fax: 020 7831 7737 info@beverleynunnery.com

CASE MANAGEMENT CONFERENCE

APPEARANCES

Mr. Mark Brealey QC and Mr. Tony Singla (instructed by Ashurst LLP) appeared on behalf of Imperial Tobacco Group plc and Imperial Tobacco Limited.

Mr. Rhodri Thompson QC and Mr. Christopher Brown (instructed by Burges Salmon LLP) appeared on behalf of Co-operative Group Limited.

Mr. Pushpinder Saini QC and Mr. Meredith Pickford (instructed by Hogan Lovells International LLP) appeared on behalf of Wm Morrison Supermarkets plc and Safeway Stores Limited and Safeway Limited.

Mr. James Flynn QC (instructed by Norton Rose LLP) appeared on behalf of Asda Stores Limited, Asda Group Limited, Wal-Mart Stores (UK) Limited and Broadstreet Great Wilson Europe Limited.

Mr. Brian Kennelly (instructed by Baker & McKenzie LLP) appeared on behalf of Shell U.K. Limited, Shell UK Oil Products Limited and Shell Holdings (U.K.) Limited.

Ms. Elisa Holmes and Mr. Rob Williams (instructed by the General Counsel, Office of Fair Trading) appeared on behalf of the Respondent.

THE CHAIRMAN: Good morning. I have some preliminary remarks. Many thanks to everyone for their helpful letters in response to the agenda that we set out. I thought it would be helpful to run through quickly the issues that have been discussed and indicate where we are currently with our thinking and this will highlight areas where you may wish to focus your submissions. Everything I say in these remarks is, of course, only our preliminary view and we are still certainly open to listen to everyone's submissions on all points.

1 Interventions and consolidation.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

At the moment we are not minded to consolidate all or parts of these appeals. However we do now consider that this is the appropriate time to grant the uncontested applications to intervene that have been lodged by the parties. We do not propose to make any directions as to further pleadings in those interventions, certainly not as to the lodging of any statements of intervention.

In our view, the formal status of intervener will provide a framework within which any future directions can be made as to a particular appellant's involvement in another appeal. The effect of granting permission to intervene will in our view be as follows: it means that at least so far as legal submissions are concerned, we will treat a submission made by appellant A in appellant A's appeal as also being a submission made by appellant A in appellant B's appeal where appellant A is an intervener in appellant B's appeal. The extent to which appellant A may need to provide the Tribunal with a document indicating either which submissions they want this rule to apply to or which submissions should be treated as exceptions to that rule may be something we need to address at a later stage.

If all the parties are agreeable to this, we will be looking for a volunteer, probably somebody other than ITL or the OFT, to take charge of drawing up an order setting out which of the appellants is being granted permission to intervene in which appeals.

2 Timetable for written submissions.

We note that there was no support for our suggestion that the appellants split their skeletons between legal and factual issues or that the retail appellants produce a joint legal skeleton. The Tribunal is prepared to leave this to the parties so we do not need today to hear submissions as to why those suggestions did not find favour.

We note Asda's comments on the intertwined nature of the law and fact in these appeals and 32 we will return to the implications of that when considering the timing of the delivery of the 33 authorities bundles.

As far as the time table for skeletons is concerned, at the moment we prefer the idea of having them lodged in sequence with ITL first, then the retail appellants and then the OFT rather than exchanging them all at the same time. We also have some sympathy with the retail appellants' need to have more than 7 days in which to digest ITL's skeleton in order to ensure that we reduce duplication to the minimum.

We can perhaps come back to dates when we have discussed other aspects of timetabling.
As to the length of the skeletons we do want to set a maximum length. We propose 40 pages each for the retail appellants, and for ITL and the OFT 20 pages plus 10 for each of the agreements challenged, and parties must realise that it would be more helpful to the Tribunal to have documents of that length rather than much longer documents.

3 Bundles and documents.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

33

34

(i) Contemporaneous documents.

Everyone seems to be agreed that it would be useful for us to have a single chronological bundle containing all the documents relied on by OFT and by the parties in relation to each challenged agreement.

At the moment, we see the great attraction in ITL's suggestion that these should be based on the existing annexes to the Decision for each agreement with the parties adding in any additional documents with supplementary numbers without disturbing the existing numbering. This would not only have the advantage that the existing pleadings and witness statement cross references would remain valid but it would also make it clear which documents in the bundle were originally there and which ones have been added for the purposes of the appeal in case that point should be relevant for any particular reason. If this is how we decide to proceed, we need then to set a timetable for the parties to provide whoever is going to collate the bundles with copies of any additional documents they want to add into a particular bundle and then for that person to make up the bundles. It has been suggested that the OFT should take on this task and we will hear submissions about that no doubt. For the moment I am assuming it will be the OFT, but that is just for the purpose of these remarks; we have not made any decision about that.

The party who wants to add a document to the particular bundle should also indicate to the OFT after which existing document their new document needs to be inserted.

At the moment we think it would be useful for this exercise to be completed by the time the parties come to finalise their skeletons so that the correct cross references can be included and so the OFT's suggestion of 1st September date does not therefore appear to us to be the most useful way to proceed.

We also agree it would be useful to have electronic versions of the bundles in due course, and again this may be something that one of the retail appellants can usefully do to lighten the load on whoever is collating the bundles.

One concern which we have on which we would welcome submissions is whether the documents that the parties want to include in the bundles are likely to include confidential information belonging to third parties such as Gallaher and how we are to deal with this. We do not for the moment consider it would be appropriate for the OFT to take on a general role of protecting third party confidentiality, so we would welcome suggestions as to whether this is likely to be a problem and, if so, how best to deal with it. So as far as contemporaneous bundles are concerned what we need to consider now is:

- (1) Are the parties happy to proceed on the basis that the OFT will put together the bundles along these lines?
- (2) If so by what date should the parties provide the OFT with copies of the additional documents they want to include?
- (3) By what date should the OFT serve the bundles in hard copy?

(4) By what date should another party provide electronic bundles?
Finally on the question of document bundles, we have seen the correspondence between Morrison/Safeway and the OFT in which Morrison/Safeway have tried to pin down the OFT as to what documents they intend to rely on in the course of the appeal and for what reason. At the moment we do not regard this as a useful approach. In a case of this nature, particularly where there is oral evidence, it is unfair and unhelpful at this stage to try to exclude particular documents from the Tribunal's consideration.

Whether or not the OFT seeks to rely on a particular document it is for the Tribunal to consider all the evidence placed before it when coming to its own conclusions as to liability.
Further, as is apparent from this CMC and the orders that we are likely to be making, there is a great deal of work to be done by everyone before the start date of this trial; parties should therefore refrain from making further written demands generating extra work for individual appellants – it is now for the Tribunal now to decide what directions are needed to get this case ready for trial.

Authorities bundles.

We note ITL's offer to produce these. Given that the parties have indicated that they regard the legal and factual issues as intertwined in these appeals, we wonder whether it would be best to have the authorities bundle with the panel members when the last of the skeletons is filed so that they can be considered together when the panel is preparing for the hearing.

1	Parties can liaise about this, it may be that ITL can produce the bundles containing
2	authorities that they and the retail appellants' skeletons rely on and the OFT will add to this
3	if their skeleton relies on anything further.
4	4 Cross examination of witnesses.
5	We note that the parties have said and no issue appears to us to arise for this CMC.
6	5 Penalty.
7	We note that the parties are unanimous in wanting to leave any further step on penalties
8	until after the liability issues judgment, and we concur with that approach for the moment.
9	6 Teach-in with the experts.
10	We note that most of the appellants think this is a good idea and we for the moment agree.
11	The Tribunal would like this to take place on 13 th September if possible. Counsel need not
12	attend if they do not want to so it should not interrupt too much with the preparation for the
13	hearing.
14	7 The meeting of the experts and production of joint expert paper.
15	We note that everyone agrees that this would be a good idea although questions as to who
16	meets with whom and when may need some further work. We have some sympathy with
17	the OFT's reluctance to contemplate a multilateral meeting between the appellants' nine
18	experts and the two OFT experts. We therefore see some attraction in the OFT's suggestion
19	that there be an initial smaller meeting, such as between Professor Shaffer and Professor
20	Froeb and a resulting statement to which the other appellants could adhere or explain their
21	non-adherence as appropriate. If further discrete bilaterals are useful such as a meeting
22	between Professor Shaffer and Mr. Dryden then the parties can of course organise that.
23	The issues that we would want to emerge clearly from any statement are:
24	(i) Is there agreement as to the right analytical approach to the issue so that the
25	area of disagreement is how that approach works in the factual matrix of this
26	market?
27	(ii) What is the theory relied on in the Decision and what are the flaws alleged in
28	that theory?
29	8 Structure and timing of hearing.
30	We are very grateful to ITL for their recent letter which we understand sets out a timetable
31	with which most of the parties are, for the moment, agreed. We should say that there are
32	some days where the Tribunal cannot sit and at the moment you may wish to make a note of
33	these, they are: 29th September, 12 th October, 4 th , 7 th , 15 th , 24 th and 28 th November and 5 th
34	and 14 th December.

A couple of issues about the hearing: so far as the start of the case is concerned, we have had a request that we do not sit on Friday, 23rd September. Assuming that we are content with that, and seeing that ITL envisages that its opening will take a day and a half, it may be best to start on 21st and 22nd September to ensure that ITL's opening is complete and then sit again on the following Monday. In the week after that we would not sit on 29th September, so we would sit on the Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of that week. The only other point is that we note that in the provisional timetable provided by ITL that all the appellants' experts have been listed one after the other to appear then followed by the OFT's experts. We wondered whether it would be better, both in terms of the manageability of the OFT's case and the proper testing of the evidence, to have ITL's experts, then the OFT's experts and then the retail appellants. We realise that that may mean that the OFT's witnesses need to be recalled shortly at the end of the hearing, but that may be a better way of dealing with it - we just throw that out as a suggestion at this stage.

9 Arrangements for transcripts.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

We still have an open mind about LiveNote versus a traditional transcript produced at the end of the day. It may be the need to strike a balance between the usefulness of having a real time record whilst witnesses are giving their evidence in court but at the expense of having the kind of clear, fluent and user-friendly version of transcript that is generally produced by those to whom the Tribunal gives this task, and which are very useful for future use. It may be that a compromise is that during the days when we are dealing with legal submissions we should have the more traditional transcript and reserve LiveNote for when we have witnesses. But, as I say, we have not yet come to any firm view on that. We have not yet decided whether we will be putting the transcripts up on the website. It partly depends on how much of the material discussed each day is confidential and how the logistics of doing that work out. In any event the transcripts will not be put on the web until some time after the day of the hearing, so parties should not rely on that as a substitute for ordering the appropriate number of copies that they need.

To conclude these remarks we will now hear submissions issue by issue to make sure that everyone has a chance to comment on all the points raised. At the end of the day it seems to us we will need to make orders as to:

- 31 (a) interventions;
- 32 (b) timetables for:
- 33 (i) production of the experts' joint statement;

1	(ii) the preparation and lodging of the bundles of contemporaneous documents and the
2	authorities bundles;
3	(iii) for the lodging of the skeletons;
4	(c) to set dates for the teach-in and finalise the actual date for the start and progress of the
5	hearing starting in September.
6	That is what I wanted to say by opening. I do not know whether it would be useful for us to
7	rise briefly for people to digest that and then start in on where we are on interventions and
8	consolidation. Mr. Brealey?
9	MR. BREALEY: A five minute break would sort things out.
10	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes.
11	MR. BREALEY: I am obliged.
12	( Short break )
13	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, Mr. Brealey?
14	MR. BREALEY: I have not had a chance to discuss matters with anybody else in the room
15	except Mr. Parr and my clients, so this is really ITL's suggested response.
16	Going through the issues by the Tribunal's numbers: consolidation: we are happy with the
17	suggestion; that is point no.1.
18	Skeletons and timetable: we see the sense of ITL going first and then the retailer appellants
19	and then the OFT, it is just a question of dates. If I could propose some dates and explain
20	why we are proposing those and then they can be commented on later on. If I could propose
21	for ITL's skeleton Monday, 13 th June. Picking up the suggestion that the appellants need
22	more than seven days it would give the appellants to $27^{th}$ June (two weeks), and then $11^{th}$
23	July for the OFT. Those are suggestions. Originally it was going to be 24 th June for
24	everybody although we had suggested 3 rd June in our original letter, the reason we are
25	pushing back slightly is because of the experts. ITL would like to put in its skeleton having
26	had the joint experts' statement. We do not want to be in a position where the experts have
27	not met and had an agreed statement and we have to put our skeleton in before the agreed
28	statement.
29	If I could just highlight some dates for the experts. We have flagged this with the retailer
30	appellants and I am not sure we have had a reply from the OFT yet but the dates where the
31	ITL experts and the retailer appellant experts can all meet are 9 th May and then the 19 th and
32	20 th May. That is when they are all available to meet, and I will go on to the meeting of the
33	experts in a moment, but that is why it is the 13 th and 27 th June and 11 th July. If, madam,
34	you think that is too late for the Tribunal and you want to bring it forward then we may have to live with that but that is the reason, we do not want to be in the position where on 10th June we are getting an agreed statement and then two days later we have to put in the skeleton because obviously if the experts can agree some issues it is highly relevant to how we make our submissions.

Bundles: it was our suggestion that essentially the Tribunal used the decision or the statement of objection annexes. We would suggest that the OFT have carriage of that. I do not know, madam, whether they have already been provided to the Tribunal. I have an email of 28th May where the OFT said they were going to supply the annexes to the Tribunal ----

10 THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, we have those.

MR. BREALEY: So those bundles have already been copied, and they are phenomenally expensive to copy, so if we could use those and try and find a way that any extra documents can just be inserted I think that would save cost and time, and ensure that the relevant bundles get to the parties at a really early date.

If the OFT can ensure that any extra documents are lodged I would suggest that those be finalised by the end of April so we then have May to draft the submissions by reference to those.

The joint authorities bundle ITL will do I would suggest by 13th June if that is the date by which we lodge our skeleton, if not it would have to be earlier. Hopefully ITL will have agreed with the retailer appellants what authorities they intend to rely on and it may be that when it lodges its skeleton the OFT will put in its supplemental bundle, so at least by the end of the lodging of the skeletons all joint authorities are with the Tribunal.

Confidentiality: to be frank we have not really sorted it out yet. We are not sure at the moment how the confidentiality issue is going to be addressed, and it may well be that we will have to put in further submissions in the next couple of days as to how that is to work. There are two problems really, the first is the cross-examination of the witnesses, so if there is, say, an annex 17 which relates to Morrisons and that has confidential information in it relating to Morrisons, how is that going to be raised in open court when the rest of the parties are going to be in court and the OFT are cross-examining the relevant person for Morrisons or whoever it be. So there is an issue of confidentiality just on the witnesses but then also as to how we are going to get the statement of objection annexes, and at the moment I think we are just going to have to put some heads together. It may well be that as far as the witnesses are concerned, the OFT would at some stage, maybe in September flag up what documents it is going to refer to. It may be that that does not work, but dealing with

1	confidentiality is a real issue when there are so many parties. It is obviously fine for the
2	Tribunal but the difficulty arises vis-à-vis the third parties when there is a common bundle
3	and we really have to try and sort that out and at the moment I am afraid I just do not have
4	an answer.
5	Cross-examination of witnesses: we have nothing on that.
6	Penalties: we have nothing to suggest.
7	The teach-in on 13 th September: we are happy with that. The only request we have is if the
8	issues could be clarified either by the Tribunal or by the parties so the experts know exactly
9	what their remit is. I am reminded that we need to confirm availability on 13 th September.
10	The meeting of the experts: I flag that by reference to our skeleton arguments. As I say, I
11	do not know the position of the OFT but the experts are generally available on 9 th May and
12	$19^{\text{th}}$ and $20^{\text{th}}$ May.
13	THE CHAIRMAN: It strikes me I should say straight away that that is much too late really for
14	them, they should really be getting together as soon as possible, and they must make
15	themselves available. Are you going to go on to the question about whether it needs to be a
16	meeting of all of them? It may be that if there is an initial small meeting that that may help.
17	MR. BREALEY: I will be corrected if I am wrong, but 9 th May was the first date that Professor
18	Froeb could come over, but we will find out if there is a date in April.
19	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, but I really think that the experts have been working on the matter for a
20	long time now and they really must meet as soon as possible to get going on this.
21	MR. BREALEY: Well if that comes forward then obviously there may be room for manoeuvre
22	on the skeletons. On the face, as a minimum we say it should be Froeb and Shaffer - if I can
23	just use their surnames - and Ridyard and Walker with Haberman as well, because he has
24	given some of the raw data upon which the reports
25	THE CHAIRMAN: Is Haberman in both of those or just with Ridyard and Walker?
26	MR. BREALEY: Yes, if Dr. Walker wants Mr. Haberman there - he may not want him there but
27	it would seem sensible; he is the author of some of the data. So we would suggest as a
28	minimum Froeb and Shaffer, Ridyard and Walker with Mr. Haberman, but we would not
29	want, and I am sure the other retailer appellants do not want to see their experts somehow
30	relegated to just commenting, they have obviously submitted detailed reports of their own,
31	they have their own appeals. I see that Professor Shaffer may not want to tackle several
32	experts in one room, but it may well be that they can meet on the same day. We do feel that
33	when experts meet face to face it is much better than on the telephone or on a conference
34	call, so we would urge the OFT and the Tribunal to order some sort of meeting face to face

1	and as a minimum I say it should be Professors Froeb and Shaffer, but the other experts
2	hopefully can be there to meet Professor Shaffer on the same day.
3	I would also add that the experts should try and get the ball rolling now so they can do that -
4	certainly the retailer experts have tried to do that, they have started the ball rolling so that
5	when they do meet on whenever it is in April or May they have some idea what they have to
6	agree and disagree.
7	THE CHAIRMAN: I would hope that they have all at least read each other's reports by now.
8	MR. BREALEY: I am sure they have - most of them have replied, so I am sure they have. We
9	think a face to face meeting is preferable and we should try and accommodate the experts
10	who are being called by the other retailer appellants, because they do have other things to
11	add.
12	Timetable: we are happy with the timetable. I understand the OFT may have an issue with
13	that, I am not sure at the moment. We can start a day earlier.
14	Transcripts: personally, I prefer the sort of transcript that comes in at the evening so you
15	can read it, but also when you have witnesses LiveNote is very handy as well, so I do not
16	know whether we can have a system whereby we have LiveNote but we also get hard copies
17	in the evening - I think in Mr. Flynn's and my own experience you do get that from
18	LiveNote, so you do get something at the end of the day.
19	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, it is the extent to which it is possible to 'clean up' the immediacy of the
20	LiveNote transcript so that it reads fluently as the transcripts that we get here at the end of
21	the day do.
22	MR. BREALEY: Yes, I appreciate that. So the only real issue on which I am not able to assist at
23	the moment is the confidentiality, and subject to anything the Tribunal
24	THE CHAIRMAN: Well let us hear what others have to say. Who is going to go next? Mr.
25	Thompson?
26	MR. THOMPSON: I do not know whether it is alphabetical order, but anyway I am on my feet!
27	Intervention and consolidation: At the moment we have only applied to intervene in the
28	ITL appeal insofar as it relates to us and that seemed to us to be the minimum proportionate
29	thing to do but it seems to us that it should be symmetrical and effectively we are all raising
30	the same point, so either that approach should commend itself or else we should be given
31	formal leave to intervene in all one another's appeals, but leave it to our good sense not to
32	abuse that. I do not think either is self-evidently the correct answer, it just seems that it
33	should be the same for each of the retailer appellants because essentially they are all raising
34	the same point that they have a limited interest in the ITL appeal, and a possible interest in

<ul> <li>everybody is allowed to intervene in everybody else's appeal but resting on their good sense</li> <li>that they will not waste everyone's time, or else the more limited approach that we have</li> <li>adopted, or it may be simpler just to take the Hasbro approach and just give everybody</li> <li>leave to intervene in one another's appeals.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: It may be then that there is an intermediate stage that we need which is for</li> <li>everyone to consider their position and if they have so far not applied to intervene in all the</li> <li>appeals but they wish to do so to make those applications - obviously they are out of time</li> <li>but we can grant permission to make that applications of intervention have</li> <li>been made. What we need is a timetable by which this will be achieved and a volunteer to</li> <li>co-ordinate it.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived 1 am perfectly happy to</li> <li>make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do</li> <li>it</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,</li> <li>we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with</li> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had</li></ul>	1	the other appeals depending on how the hearing goes so I think it should be either
<ul> <li>adopted, or it may be simpler just to take the Hasbro approach and just give everybody</li> <li>leave to intervene in one another's appeals.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: It may be then that there is an intermediate stage that we need which is for</li> <li>everyone to consider their position and if they have so far not applied to intervene in all the</li> <li>appeals but they wish to do so to make those applications - obviously they are out of time</li> <li>but we can grant permission to make that application out of time - and then in a</li> <li>compendious order we can grant whatever uncontested applications for intervention have</li> <li>been made. What we need is a timetable by which this will be achieved and a volunteer to</li> <li>co-ordinate it.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived I am perfectly happy to</li> <li>make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do</li> <li>it</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,</li> <li>we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with</li> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons is. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had</li></ul>	2
<ul> <li>leave to intervene in one another's appeals.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: It may be then that there is an intermediate stage that we need which is for everyone to consider their position and if they have so far not applied to intervene in all the appeals but they wish to do so to make those applications - obviously they are out of time but we can grant permission to make that application out of time - and then in a compendious order we can grant whatever uncontested applications for intervention have been made. What we need is a timetable by which this will be achieved and a volunteer to co-ordinate it.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived I am perfectly happy to make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do it</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested, we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd</li></ul>	3	that they will not waste everyone's time, or else the more limited approach that we have
<ul> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: It may be then that there is an intermediate stage that we need which is for</li> <li>everyone to consider their position and if they have so far not applied to intervene in all the</li> <li>appeals but they wish to do so to make those applications - obviously they are out of time</li> <li>but we can grant permission to make that application out of time - and then in a</li> <li>compendious order we can grant whatever uncontested applications for intervention have</li> <li>been made. What we need is a timetable by which this will be achieved and a volunteer to</li> <li>co-ordinate it.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived I am perfectly happy to</li> <li>make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do</li> <li>it</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,</li> <li>we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with</li> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons is. The timetable that we ha</li></ul>	4	adopted, or it may be simpler just to take the Hasbro approach and just give everybody
<ul> <li>everyone to consider their position and if they have so far not applied to intervene in all the</li> <li>appeals but they wish to do so to make those applications - obviously they are out of time</li> <li>but we can grant permission to make that application out of time - and then in a</li> <li>compendious order we can grant whatever uncontested applications for intervention have</li> <li>been made. What we need is a timetable by which this will be achieved and a volunteer to</li> <li>co-ordinate it.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived I am perfectly happy to</li> <li>make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do</li> <li>it</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,</li> <li>we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with</li> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons is. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL</li></ul>	5	leave to intervene in one another's appeals.
<ul> <li>appeals but they wish to do so to make those applications - obviously they are out of time</li> <li>but we can grant permission to make that application out of time - and then in a</li> <li>compendious order we can grant whatever uncontested applications for intervention have</li> <li>been made. What we need is a timetable by which this will be achieved and a volunteer to</li> <li>co-ordinate it.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived I am perfectly happy to</li> <li>make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do</li> <li>it</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,</li> <li>we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with</li> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a</li></ul>	6	THE CHAIRMAN: It may be then that there is an intermediate stage that we need which is for
<ul> <li>but we can grant permission to make that application out of time - and then in a</li> <li>compendious order we can grant whatever uncontested applications for intervention have</li> <li>been made. What we need is a timetable by which this will be achieved and a volunteer to</li> <li>co-ordinate it.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived I am perfectly happy to</li> <li>make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do</li> <li>it</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,</li> <li>we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with</li> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	7	everyone to consider their position and if they have so far not applied to intervene in all the
<ul> <li>compendious order we can grant whatever uncontested applications for intervention have</li> <li>been made. What we need is a timetable by which this will be achieved and a volunteer to</li> <li>co-ordinate it.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived I am perfectly happy to</li> <li>make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do</li> <li>it</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,</li> <li>we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with</li> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3nd June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	8	appeals but they wish to do so to make those applications - obviously they are out of time
11Deen made.11been made. What we need is a timetable by which this will be achieved and a volunteer to12co-ordinate it.13MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived I am perfectly happy to14make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do15it16THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,17we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with18that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope19someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.20MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do21the paper work.22THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we23will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)24MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.25Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we27had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the28convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the34skeletons is.30THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30 th June, we really want to get all the34skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in th	9	but we can grant permission to make that application out of time - and then in a
12co-ordinate it.13MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived I am perfectly happy to14make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do15it16THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,17we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with18that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope19someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.20MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do21the paper work.22THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we23will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)24MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.25Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we26skeletons is.27THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30 th June, we really want to get all the31skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their32written comments to us would be ITL by 3 rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we33agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16 th June, and the OFT then by 30 th June. I	10	compendious order we can grant whatever uncontested applications for intervention have
<ul> <li>MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived I am perfectly happy to</li> <li>make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do</li> <li>it</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,</li> <li>we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with</li> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	11	been made. What we need is a timetable by which this will be achieved and a volunteer to
<ul> <li>make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do</li> <li>it</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,</li> <li>we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with</li> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June, I</li> </ul>	12	co-ordinate it.
<ul> <li>it</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,</li> <li>we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with</li> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	13	MR. THOMPSON: For my part if the procedural steps can be waived I am perfectly happy to
<ul> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested, we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	14	make the intervention on my feet now - I do not know if the other advocates are happy to do
<ul> <li>we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with</li> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	15	it
<ul> <li>that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope</li> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	16	THE CHAIRMAN: That is not what I had in mind! (Laughter) Given that this is not contested,
<ul> <li>someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	17	we have said what we have suggested let us hear whether or not everybody is happy with
<ul> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do</li> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	18	that approach and then sort it out in writing amongst yourselves and we would hope
<ul> <li>the paper work.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	19	someone would provide us with a draft order that we can then make.
<ul> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we</li> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	20	MR. THOMPSON: I am sure that can be done, and if nobody else volunteers we are happy to do
<ul> <li>will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)</li> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	21	the paper work.
<ul> <li>MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.</li> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	22	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, well that was a rather grudging volunteering, Mr. Thompson, but we
<ul> <li>MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.</li> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	23	will make a note of it, nonetheless! We will see if anyone is more enthusiastic. (Laughter)
<ul> <li>Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we</li> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	24	MR. FLYNN: We were going to volunteer without caveats, madam.
<ul> <li>had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the</li> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	25	MR. THOMPSON: I can take instructions, I am sure we are very happy to do it, madam.
<ul> <li>convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the</li> <li>skeletons is.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	26	Skeleton date: we have no objection to the suggestion made by ITL, I think if anything we
<ul> <li>29 skeletons is.</li> <li>30 THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>31 skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>32 written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>33 agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	27	had thought it could be put back another week, but that is obviously subject to the
<ul> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30th June, we really want to get all the</li> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	28	convenience of the Tribunal as to when, as it were, the end date for receiving all the
<ul> <li>skeletons in. The timetable that we had in mind, based on what the parties had said in their</li> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	29
<ul> <li>written comments to us would be ITL by 3rd June as they had said, the retailers, who we</li> <li>agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16th June, and the OFT then by 30th June. I</li> </ul>	30	THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think our end date really is 30 th June, we really want to get all the
33 agree need to have a little bit more time, by 16 th June, and the OFT then by 30 th June. I	31
34 realise, as Mr. Brealey said, in an ideal world of course everyone would have had a chance
	34	realise, as Mr. Brealey said, in an ideal world of course everyone would have had a chance to look at the joint statement and that is why I think the experts are going to have to hurry up a little bit with producing their joint statement so that everyone can have a chance to see that before they finalise their skeletons, at least on a provisional basis to have an idea as to how much is agreed and how much is still contentious.

1

2

3

4

7

11

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

5 MR. THOMPSON: Yes, well perhaps I can make up any lack of enthusiasm in relation to the 6 intervention issue by saying we have tried to take forward the expert issue relatively rapidly in that we have already been speaking to other experts and have prepared a schedule with 8 the other appellant experts of propositions that we hope may in due course be agreed by 9 everybody and those which we anticipate will not be agreed, and it has not been agreed even 10 between the appellant experts, so I do not think it is something that is necessary to show the Tribunal at this stage, but it seemed to us that rather than Professors Shaffer and Froeb, no 12 doubt with the best of intentions, to try and agree what they think the issues are that a more 13 productive approach would be for the appellants to try and co-ordinate their position and 14 then put it to the OFT and then for the OFT to see whether it does agree with the points that 15 we think they will agree with and what it has to say about the points that we think they will 16 not agree with. That was the approach we thought would be the best way to set the agenda 17 and might lead to a relatively rapid identification of the main issues, and hopefully then a 18 constructive debate either at the date Mr. Brealey has already identified or, if possible, at 19 earlier dates, but that was the approach we thought would be the most efficient.

THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, as far as what the Tribunal has to order is concerned, I do not think we were envisaging ordering the dates of the meetings or even who would attend the meetings, what we would order is the final date by which a joint statement has to be produced. The question for us then is whether it is going to be in two stages, whether we set a date for Professor Froeb and Professor Shaffer, and perhaps Messrs. Ridyard and Walker to produce their statements and then a slightly later date for the retail appellants' experts to produce a statement, each of them, as to which parts they adhere to and which they do not. It may be that that would be a more manageable exercise than to try and get 11 economists to agree one single document.

29 MR. THOMPSON: Yes, I think what we were hoping to achieve would be a measure of 30 agreement that everybody agreed to certain propositions - possibly fairly elementary - and 31 then for the individual experts to comment in writing, as it were, in the quasi Scott Schedule 32 on propositions that they did not agree on or that the appellants did agree on but the OFT 33 did not agree on. But obviously until they have all been round a table and discussed it then 34 the extent to which a document in that form will be possible is obviously open to question.

THE CHAIRMAN: Well maybe the most we can do today is to set the end stop date by which this exercise has to have been completed in whatever form it ultimately takes and this obviously is for the parties of the experts to decide what is feasible and likely to be helpful.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

33

34

MR. THOMPSON: So far as we are concerned I think that would be all the Tribunal needs to do and it sounds from what Mr. Brealey is saying that he would want that to be at least a week before he had to file his skeleton argument, whenever that ultimately was, otherwise the experts obviously have their duties to the Tribunal and all are extremely experienced in their fields, and I would have thought that, subject to the type of issues that have already been discussed, if they are working against a particular timetable they should be able to make the arrangements to make that possible.

11 In relation to written submissions, I think we have already said that we will comply with the 12 40 page cap, and no doubt we will be able to do that without shrinking the font. 13 As far as the bundles, I do not think we had any problem with the documentary bundles. In 14 relation to the authorities, as I understood Mr. Brealey he was suggesting that the joint 15 authorities bundle should be served with the ITL skeleton and that seemed to us rather 16 optimistic. It seemed to us that the joint authorities for the appellants would need to be 17 served sometime, possibly two weeks after the retailer skeletons were served and then with 18 the OFT having the opportunity to supplement that two weeks after its skeleton, that seemed 19 to us a more realistic timetable.

So far as questions of confidentiality are concerned, we did not currently see that as a great issue given that there is already, as we understand it, a confidentiality ring. It would simply be a question of marking those documents as confidential and, if necessary clearing the court if and when confidential issues arose, but it seemed to us that that was a matter to deal with as we went along during the hearing or, if necessary, before the hearing, but that is how we see it at the moment.

In relation to the hearing timetable, I think the only caveat I would wish to put down, and it is one that we put down in para. 2.7 of our original letter of 30th September 2010 is that we have some concern that the timetable for the openings and the witness evidence will prove to be too leisurely and that the pressure will come on the timing for closings. For our part we do not want to be held back - we think we may well need two days in closing and we would not want it to be said: "You have had two days for your witnesses to be cross-examined by Mr. Lasok and therefore you should not have a full time for closing." It seemed to us that in reality the issues of law and fact may well become crystallised after the witnesses and the experts have been heard and it is at that point that it will be most useful to 1 make detailed submissions, whereas if we make extended submissions in opening and then 2 in relation to the documents before the witnesses have been heard, and in particular the 3 expert evidence, there may be a timing issue. We have discussed it with ITL but it remains an issue and at the moment we are simply putting a marker down that we think we would 4 5 like to have at least two days allotted to us in the closing period and we think it may be 6 possible to move rather more quickly in relation to openings and the witness stage. I do not 7 know that it necessarily needs to be reflected in any order but it is simply a marker that we 8 wish to put down.

THE CHAIRMAN: Well, as far as the timetable is concerned, the key part of it, of course, is some witnesses will only want to make themselves available on those particular dates, and they will ensure they are free on those dates and may not have any element of flexibility in that. Anyway, at the moment we note your concerns.

13 MR. THOMPSON: Yes, we have put down a suggested broad timetable week by week and I 14 think it needs some modification because of Shell availability but we think at the moment that is a reasonable approach. 15

16 In terms of transcripts, we are very happy to go with the general group. We have raised the 17 question of who should pay for them, and whether OFT and ITL should pay a larger 18 proportion because of the larger share of the appeal, but otherwise we take no strong view 19 between LiveNote and the transcript. As we understand it LiveNote provides an amended 20 transcript as part of its service, so I think it is essentially a question of whether or not LiveNote is thought to be necessary, particularly for the opening and legal submissions or 22 whether a written transcript is sufficient, and personally it sounds to me like the 23 compromise position may be perfectly reasonable that LiveNote is needed only for the 24 witness evidence.

I think those are the only points we wish to raise. Thank you.

THE CHAIRMAN: Thank you very much. Mr. Saini?

9

10

11

12

21

25

26

27 MR. SAINI: Madam, subject to two particular points, we respectfully agree with the way that Mr. 28 Brealey puts the matter. The two particular points I want to address are the meeting of the 29 experts and the teach-in. We submit that it would be appropriate for Professor Yarrow and 30 Dr. Decker to have a meeting, either together with all of the other experts and Professor 31 Froeb or separately because, as you will have noticed, there is quite a sharp difference 32 between the approach taken by the various appellant experts, therefore, a meeting just, for 33 example, between Professor Froeb and Professor Shaffer will not really help the Tribunal in 34 dealing with the totality of the expert evidence. Professor Yarrow in particular takes a very

1	different approach in terms of his attack on the OFT's reasoning. We do not mind if there is
2	a separate meeting, or if it happens altogether, but we do respectfully submit that there
3	should be a date fixed for a joint report or agreed statement as between Professor Shaffer
4	and Professor Yarrow.
5	Secondly, in relation to the teach-in, we agree that it is a good idea, unfortunately the date
6	the Tribunal has identified, 13 th September is the date of the annual conference of the
7	Regulatory Policy Institute in Oxford and I was going to suggest that the experts and the
8	Tribunal liaise and see if another date is possible - I do not know the availabilities of the
9	other experts at the moment, I do not know whether anybody has been able to check - but
10	13 th is not an appropriate day for either Professor Yarrow or Dr. Decker I appreciate that
11	may cause some difficulties, but
12	THE CHAIRMAN: What we were envisaging this date would be, would be really an explanation
13	largely from the OFT as to what they did in order to come to the conclusions that they came
14	to in the decision, that is one aspect of it.
15	MR. SAINI: Madam, may I ask, are you envisaging that Professor Shaffer would present that, or
16	is it somebody else presenting it on behalf of the OFT?
17	THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I do not know. We are rather in your hands as to how best to deal with
18	this, but what I am saying is it is not necessarily the case that everybody's expert needs to
19	attend, but let us see whether it turns out to be fairly straight forward to find an alternative
20	date, but if it is not then we may need to explore a little bit whether actually it is necessary
21	for all the experts to be in attendance, it is supposed to be an entirely non-contentious,
22	neutral presentation; it may be it need only cover the areas of common ground between the
23	experts just so that we are sure that we understand them if they are not going to be gone
24	through by the experts in evidence.
25	MR. SAINI: I am grateful for that clarification. May I just mention one last point which relates
26	to the correspondence that my instructing solicitors have had with the OFT in relation to
27	bundles and documents? I should make it absolutely clear that we are not seeking to
28	exclude any documents for consideration by the Tribunal but there is a more basic point and
29	I put this down as a marker now because we may get into deep waters when the Tribunal's
30	substantive hearing begins, and the point is as follows: The Tribunal will be aware that the
31	OFT in its decision relies upon what it calls "examples" of particular inappropriate or
32	unlawful contacts between the manufacturers and the retailers, and it may pick a particular
33	exchange and then it explains its case, but it constantly emphasises that these are just
34	examples. Where the OFT has taken a particular example and explained its case as to what is going on in a communication and what is inappropriate about that communication we have responded to it. Equally, the OFT in their defence have put in a response to our response. However, there are a large number of documents which are still in this category of examples relied upon where neither we, nor the OFT, have addressed in any detail what is going on in that particular communication, and in particular the OFT have not identified what they say is inappropriate about a particular communication.

The Tribunal may think "we do not need any further explanation because an email is an email, a letter is a letter, we can read it", but the Tribunal will have appreciated that each document has to be put in a context, one has to know what has happened before, one has to know, for example, has there been a Budget announcement, which explains the detail of the exchange? What is going to happen in the Tribunal if the OFT is allowed - and we are not trying to stop them at the moment - to refer to examples which neither party has dealt with? It is going to increase the length of the hearing and it may lead to various adjournments. Just to give you an example of the examples: one of the documents is a meeting that took place between my clients and a manufacturer. Each side has spent five pages explaining their case as to what was going on in that meeting. That is just one example. If that is repeated at the substantive hearing the hearing is going to drag on for a very, very long time. I am not asking the Tribunal to make any order in relation to that at the moment but it is going to be a problem.

In relation to interventions we have nothing to add, it seems that every party should be allowed to intervene in every other appellant's appeal. May I just take instructions?

22 THE CHAIRMAN: Yes.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

24

23 MR. SAINI: (After a pause): Thank you very much.

THE CHAIRMAN: Thank you. Mr. Flynn?

25 MR. FLYNN: Madam, if I just run very quickly through the points from Asda's perspective as 26 well. In relation to permission to intervene, as I interjected earlier, we were prepared to 27 volunteer to co-ordinate an order if that would assist the Tribunal. As I understand what 28 you are saying, those parties who have not, as it were, applied to intervene in all cases 29 should now write to the Tribunal to say that that is their position if it so be. I think we have 30 done that and it was our proposal that at a formal level you should admit Asda to intervene 31 in all cases, the extent of that intervention to be determined as we go along and left not only 32 to our good sense but no doubt also the Tribunal's good sense of what it needs as we roll 33 along. If that is the proposal we are prepared to co-ordinate and if you need a timetable on that perhaps you would indicate - I do not suppose it need be a very long one because those letters can be written pretty smartly.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

33

34

In terms of timetable for skeletons we hear what you have said about that and we have heard what Mr. Brealey says. Obviously the end date, I suppose, will be one that the Tribunal will set. We had asked in our submission for a date of 20th for our skeleton if that were possible with the Tribunal because of availability of counsel, not only the Pay TV case which, as you know is interfering to an extent with preparation for this, but also Mr. O'Donoghue has other court commitments so if we could be indulged on that we would be grateful. In relation to the bundles we very much agree with the idea that those bundles already exist, the chronological run, it is just a question of adding to those any further documents - I think we only have one additional document to add which is annexed to our notice of application, which is an ITL Asda trading agreement which, for some reason, the OFT had not put in those particular schedules, and I think it acknowledges in the defence that that was an oversight. I think that is our only additional document, and I assume there will not be anything else from the OFT, so it is actually not as complicated or as terrifying as it might have sounded, at least in our appeal and so we think that the way Mr. Brealey has suggested that should be dealt with seems to be the most appropriate and economical. Cross-examination - I do not think any of us particularly have anything to say. If interventions are granted then if there is an application as we go along that will be made and dealt with then.

In relation to the experts, 13th September for the teach-in is all right for our expert but it sounds as if that date may move so we may need to explore, but if it is the 13th then Mr. Dryden can make it.

In relation to the experts' meetings, and I hear the Tribunal saying they need to crack on with them, but obviously they take some arrangement, and we have at least managed to identify some dates when the appellants' experts are available and it may be difficult to find many other dates in that form. If I may say, echoing what Mr. Brealey anticipated, we would not want Mr. Dryden to be relegated to, as it were, a second level expert. He has given his views on both Professor Shaffer and Dr. Walker's evidence and we think he should be treated in a sort of first level way. It may be that what you have is a series of meetings on the same day, it is not really as if everyone is ganging up on Professor Shaffer but everyone will have their points that they wish to discuss with him and see whether they agree or disagree. We think actually to sequence it, if you had a first Froeb/Shaffer meeting, and then follow on meetings with the others, it might actually lead to delay which

1	would then knock on into the skeleton timetable, and it would be better if it could be done to
2	group them and I know that 9 th May is a little far away - it may be that an earlier date can be
3	found - but at least one is actually there when however many people it is are available and
4	one knows that can be hard to find. We do think there are dangers of both repetition and
5	delay in having a layered approach, and that our expert should be treated as a primary expert
6	and not a secondary expert.
7	We are content with the ITL timetable if that is how it works out and obviously we note the
8	dates on which the Tribunal will not be sitting.
9	In relation to transcript, my understanding is that with LiveNote you get both. You get the
10	"live" as you are going along and it is revised and there may be some mishearings and so
11	forth, but at the end of the day someone sits down and edits it and you get a transcript much
12	in the form that the Tribunal will be used to from the excellent service that is received up to
13	now. So our understanding is that you would get both and whether it makes sense to have
14	two systems, one for legal submissions and a different one for evidence probably not
15	because you will get the same benefit, even when it is just legal submissions. The great
16	advantage of it does mean that although these hearings will be going on for some time not
17	all parties need to be attending at all times but they can actually follow back at the office,
18	they can follow what is going on in the courtroom, and so be keeping themselves up to date.
19	THE CHAIRMAN: Oh, how does that work then, is it streamed through to the
20	MR. FLYNN: Now you are asking, madam! I would have to find out but it is available at
21	terminals, yes, I think it must be a form of streaming.
22	THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work when one wants to sit in camera?
23	MR. FLYNN: Then I suppose if one is sitting in camera it will only be visible to people in the
24	ring, one controls who the subscribers are.
25	THE CHAIRMAN: Well I understand that in the Pay TV case this is going to be used and that
26	there is going to be a little demonstration of how it works.
27	MR. FLYNN: Yes, well I will probably learn from that, madam, I cannot pretend I have done it
28	myself.
29	THE CHAIRMAN: We may be able to be a little wiser after that.
30	MR. FLYNN: It is a relevant question that you have asked and that is something that would have
31	to be catered for.
32	Mr. Jones reminds me, we did say in our letter, much along the same lines as Mr. Saini has
33	already mentioned, we do think it would be of assistance if the OFT would indicate the
34	extent to which it wishes to rely on documents that it has not so far been clear about, and we

1	have made the point that they say they rely particularly on certain documents. That leaves
2	what are they making, if anything, of the others in that category? We are just left in the
3	dark.
4	THE CHAIRMAN: Are these other documents that are in those existing annexes?
5	MR. FLYNN: I believe so, yes, yes, they are and indeed we have commented on them. In fact, in
6	our appeal we have commented on all the documents in the annexes based on what our
7	understanding of it is. The only thing is if the OFT wishes to make something else of the
8	documents that we have not understood it has not so far been put to us, so we should just
9	like some clarity about that. I think the correspondence that you have seen led to a rather
10	circular response from the OFT saying they were referred to in the decision, in the manner
11	in which they are referred to in the decision, which did not to my mind answer the question
12	that was being put to them.
13	THE CHAIRMAN: Is this the situation: that in the decision annexes then which are now going to
14	be used as the building blocks for the contemporaneous document bundles for the
15	appeal
16	MR. FLYNN: Which I think are the "SO" annexes recapitulated.
17	THE CHAIRMAN: There are documents in there on which the OFT broadly speaking says:
18	"These are the documents that we rely on in respect of this alleged infringement", in relation
19	to some of those there has been a narrative description by the OFT which has then been
20	countered by the party as to what interpretation they place on that document and then so the
21	party has said "That is the wrong interpretation". But there are lying in those bundles other
22	documents about which there has been no exchange of views
23	MR. FLYNN: Yes, that is precisely the position.
24	THE CHAIRMAN: so that we know that the OFT says it relies on them in some way as it has
25	included them in the annex, but we do not know what it is that they make of them, and your
26	concern is that at the hearing something will pop up to say: "We interpret it as that" and
27	then you will not have had a chance to respond to that.
28	MR. FLYNN: And if that is going to establish the infringement we have not had the opportunity.
29	I think the aim of the correspondence was to flush that out. As I say, in our appeal we have
30	actually taken the approach of commenting on the documents that are in those annexes, but
31	that is not in all cases and in many cases it is not against the background of the OFT having
32	said what it relies on the document for. That is the position and that is why the issue has
33	been raised in our correspondence, in Morrisons and, for all I know, in others.
34	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, I see. Yes, thank you, Mr. Flynn. Mr. Kennelly?

- MR. KENNELLY: Thank you, madam. Taking your list in order, we are content with the Tribunal's suggestion in relation to interventions. On the sequential exchange of skeleton arguments, again we are content, and we are content with Mr. Brealey's suggestion provided it does not disturb the hearing dates which I do not believe it does. Again, we are content with the 40 page cap, we are sure we can manage that.
  - Similarly for bundles, we are happy with Mr. Brealey's suggestion in relation to the bundles, and we are happy with Mr. Thompson's suggestion in relation to the authorities bundles, we think that is sensible.
  - THE CHAIRMAN: What was that suggestion?

MR. KENNELLY: His suggestion was that it was not possible to have a full and final authorities bundle served with the appellants' skeleton argument, that would need to be done slightly later and then supplemented with the OFT's additional authorities if there were any. Similarly, in relation to confidentiality, we do not see that being a major problem, we expect the Tribunal to deal with it in the way it has in the other infringement appeals and, indeed, in the telecoms' appeals, where there is a ring and where confidential information is marked in colour in the bundles so that at the hearing advocates can see what ought not to be read out.

- THE CHAIRMAN: That is not quite the point I was making, Mr. Kennelly. The point is that who is going to decide what information is confidential? Suppose that Shell wants to add in a lot of documents to the chronological bundle that is going to be made up and no doubt you will mark on those information which Shell considers to be confidential, but there may be some other third parties' information in there as well which Shell is not particularly bothered whether it is treated confidentially or not, but that third party would be concerned. Now, whose responsibility is it to ensure that that third party's confidentiality is respected?
  Would it make sense for us to say, or order in some way, that any additional document that one of the appellants wants to include in the bundle, they must when providing that to the collator attest that they have ensured that information confidential to anybody, including third parties has been identified and protected because otherwise there may be all sorts of information which is not coloured yellow, or whatever, but which actually is confidential to Gallaher or whatever, and it is not fair to expect the OFT to police that.
- MR. KENNELLY: I can see the sense respectfully in that suggestion, and we would be happy to adopt that. In other appeals this has arisen, and the Tribunal has expected parties to act sensibly and they have done, where there are multiple parties and documents are put forward which contain information confidential to various other parties and in other appeals

- again in the National Grid infringement appeal, and in some of the telecoms' appeals parties have in general been sensible and have anticipated this problem, and indicated in advance that there may be additional confidential information, but the confidentiality belongs to a party other than the person putting forward the document. But, madam, if you think it is necessary to deal with that formally we have no objection at all, we would do that in any event.
  - On cross-examination I have something to say but I will deal with it when we come to time table. We can skip penalty.
- In relation to teach-in and the meetings of experts, Shell makes no submission because we have two very short expert reports which are not connected to the main expert reports and so we will not be asking our experts to attend those meetings, we do not see there is any need to do so and also we are trying to save costs.
- The main issue for us, in fact, is the issue of the timetable. In our submission ITL has done a good job in accommodating the various commitments of counsel and witnesses in the timetable which it has put forward. It was the timetable attached to Ashurst's letter of 5th April.

THE CHAIRMAN: (After a pause): Yes.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18 MR. KENNELLY: As far as I am aware the OFT have not responded to object to this, but I 19 understand that they do object, they are not content with this timetable, obviously it is for 20 them to say why, but before they do so I think it is important from Shell's perspective to flag 21 two things. First, Shell's availability is very tightly constrained because of the availability 22 of counsel and witnesses, and therefore the dates which are given to Shell in the ITL 23 timetable are in reality the only dates that Shell can do. The OFT have suggested in their 24 correspondence that they wish to cross-examine each - they have said it is a very rough 25 estimate, but they have said they want half a day for each factual witness. In our 26 submission that does not make any sense in relation to the Shell witnesses, because the 27 witness statements are very short, and one of the witnesses - Mr. Barry - will not be 28 attending, he is not being called. We served a Civil Evidence Act notice when we served 29 his statement. He lives in Australia, and it was considered disproportionate to ask him to 30 attend to be cross-examined. The OFT have not responded to that, they have not dealt with 31 Mr. Barry's attendance and that may be something they want to address the Tribunal on 32 today. But if he is not attending, as we say he will not be, there will only be three witnesses 33 of fact from Shell and so it ought really to be possible, we say, to accommodate them on 34 one day for cross-examination.

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

21

THE CHAIRMAN: Well it is not just a matter of cross-examining them on their witness statements, it is a matter of the OFT being able to put the case to them.

MR. KENNELLY: Indeed, but even in relation to that and in relation to the documents where these witnesses may be able to assist the Tribunal we still say that there is half a day, certainly in relation to Mr. Moss. We will hear what the OFT says, but we cannot see any basis for needing half a day for cross-examining Mr. Moss, but again we will do what the OFT says. In fairness to the OFT they have said that their estimate for half a day per witness is very general, and it may be in relation to these particular Shell witnesses the OFT will say they do not need that much time.

10 Similarly for the experts, the OFT have given a general estimate. It seems on my reading of 11 their letter to be approximately a day each and in relation to experts, Dr. Heard and Dr. 12 Latremoliere again we say that is far too much, there is no reason why the OFT need that 13 much time to cross-examine those particular experts on the very narrow issues that they 14 speak to in the Shell appeal.

15 THE CHAIRMAN: But again that is not quite the point - or it may not be the point - it depends 16 on how far Shell is adopting arguments made by other witnesses and other expert witnesses 17 and insofar as they are adopting those how far the OFT then needs to put whatever 18 arguments it has contesting those views to the Shell witnesses as well. Now, if you are 19 saying: "We will not take any point about something not having been put to our witnesses 20 when the OFT come to sum-up their case in relation to Shell", then that would be one thing, but that is something you need to discuss with the OFT that the scope of your actual witness 22 evidence is not at the moment to my mind indicative of the scope of the questions that they 23 need to be asked if Shell is relying on everybody else's case as well more generally, 24 although their witnesses are focusing on their individual particular points.

25 MR. KENNELLY: Madam, I think it is important to distinguish between the evidence of fact and 26 the expert evidence; the expert evidence is more easily resolved, because our experts, Dr. 27 Heard and Dr. Latremoliere are not instructed to deal and will not be dealing at all with the 28 main expert issues which are being discussed between the parties in relation to the meeting 29 and the teach-in. They will not be in a position to say anything about the expert evidence 30 and the expert issues in the main appeals. They are only here to discuss very narrow issues, 31 and so they will not be able to assist the Tribunal at all in relation to the other issues, and I 32 would not expect anyone to cross-examine them, and if they did all those experts could say: 33 "I have not even read those other expert reports; I am not instructed to do so", so that issue 34 will not arise for the expert evidence.

In relation to the evidence of fact, and again I am anticipating that the OFT will say maybe that my concerns are ill-founded, but even on the OFT's case there is a limit to how much they can put to our witnesses of fact because of the relatively limited knowledge they have and I am here taking the OFT's case at its highest, even assuming everybody puts its full case against Shell to these witnesses we say it will be possible to deal with the crossexamination of these three witnesses in a day, but again we will hear what the OFT has to say.

Our point is that it is important to distinguish between cross-examination of the major factual witnesses and the more minor ones. Shell is anxious that its case can be resolved in a fixed period so that we know when we can attend and limit our costs as much as possible because, of course, Shell's involvement in this case is relatively minor. Our penalty, although substantial, is relatively minor relative to the other penalties and we are very anxious to limit our involvement as much as possible so as to save costs. On the transcripts: we would prefer the cheaper option if it is cheaper, but I can see the weight of opinion is against me, so we would go along with LiveNote with the transcript at the end of the day if that is what everybody wants.

THE CHAIRMAN: Thank you. Ms. Holmes?

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

MS. HOLMES: Madam, on the issue of interventions, the OFT has no objection to any of the appellants intervening in the other appeals. The OFT is, of course, to limit any unnecessary involvement of each appellant in the other appeals, and I think that is probably a matter that can be dealt with throughout the hearing on a case by case basis, as each appellant wishes to be involved in any way in any of the other appeals.

Skeleton arguments: you will have seen, madam, from the OFT's letter that it was the OFT's preferred position that there be simultaneous exchange of skeleton arguments. The reason for that, in short, is that it seems to the OFT that the battle lines are, as it were, drawn well and truly now and that with respect to my learned friends, and without wishing to be unfair, it seems to us unlikely that there will be too much repetition avoided, if any, by taking that approach, particularly in light of what the appellants each say about the intermingling, if you like, of fact and law in this case. It is indeed quite difficult to separate those issues. So from the OFT's perspective we consider that it is not at all clear that much repetition would be avoided, particularly in light of the fact that the appellants are confined to 40 pages save for ITL.

Certainly, from the OFT's position in the relatively tight time frame envisaged in between the provision of ITL's skeleton argument and then subsequently the other appellants, and then the OFT's, it seems to us relatively unlikely that our skeleton will be terribly responsive in that way, given I think it is envisaged something like a week in between each round, if you like.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

In summary we think it is more likely to be helpful if these documents are not composed in such a way as to be either responsive or documents which are intended to be responded to but merely a more helpful summary of the key points of each party. Having said that, it is of course a matter for the Tribunal and we, of course, want to assist the Tribunal and be as helpful as we can, so ultimately it is a matter for the Tribunal but that is our submission on the manner in which the skeleton arguments should proceed.

The issue of bundles, I understand it to be the case, as has already been discussed to some extent by the appellants and the Tribunal, the Tribunal and each of the appellants has the OFT's decision and the annexes that are the SO annexes and that contains the documents on which the OFT relies.

I also understand that I think pursuant to an earlier order of the Tribunal I think on the date of the last CMC perhaps modified, as far as confidential information contained in those documents go that has been dealt with in that the OFT has approached third parties, whose information is contained in those documents, and there is an agreed bundle which is open to everyone in the confidentiality ring. In our submission this has two consequences. One is that in our submission the most appropriate way to proceed in relation to, if you like, completion of those bundles because I think we are at the stage where we can start with that core bundle, rather than the OFT being the inbetween person that each appellant is responsible for providing its additional documents on which it intends to rely and I say that follows the submission on confidentiality because it seems to us quite clear that it should be the primary responsibility of each appellant to be concerned with any potential third party confidentiality issues, and in our submission by each appellant being responsible for the addition of its documents and also the issues of confidentiality which arise from the addition of documents, that that is probably the most efficient way to proceed; it is also simply a matter of resources, madam, because the combined resource of the appellants is significantly larger than that of the OFT alone. We would envisage each appellant providing probably quite a slim bundle to be added behind the relevant annex and page numbered appropriately, and that could be done by way of provision both to the Tribunal and to each of the other parties.

THE CHAIRMAN: So what you are saying is that as far as the OFT is concerned those bundles remain the documents that you want before the Tribunal ----

2       THE CHAIRMAN: and that each appellant should then produce its own bundle using that         3       pagination but adding in with the supplementary pagination what documents they want to         4       add in         5       MS. HOLMES: Yes, and         6       THE CHAIRMAN: and they can then be responsible for attesting that any confidential         7       information of theirs or third parties in those additional documents that they have ensured         8       that it has been properly protected?         9       MS. HOLMES: Yes, indeed. I think it has been suggested by one of the parties, I think perhaps         10       ashurst on behalf of ITL, that the page numbering be such that you do not have to alter any         11       of the page numbering, so that behind each annex use perhaps an A, B, C, D, system.         12       THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that would work provided that none of the appellants wants to add any         13       documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement         14       has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are         15       appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.         16       MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are         17       two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get     <	1	MS. HOLMES: Yes.
<ul> <li>add in</li> <li>add in</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: Yes, and</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: and they can then be responsible for attesting that any confidential information of theirs or third parties in those additional documents that they have ensured that it has been properly protected?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: Yes, indeed. I think it has been suggested by one of the parties, I think perhaps Ashurst on behalf of ITL, that the page numbering be such that you do not have to alter any of the page numbering, so that behind each annex use perhaps an A, B, C, D, system.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that would work provided that none of the appellants wants to add any documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there – which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, b</li></ul>	2	THE CHAIRMAN: and that each appellant should then produce its own bundle using that
5MS. HOLMES: Yes, and6THE CHAIRMAN: and they can then be responsible for attesting that any confidential information of theirs or third parties in those additional documents that they have ensured that it has been properly protected?9MS. HOLMES: Yes, indeed. I think it has been suggested by one of the parties, I think perhaps Ashurst on behalf of ITL, that the page numbering be such that you do not have to alter any of the page numbering, so that behind each annex use perhaps an A, B, C, D, system.11THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that would work provided that none of the appellants wants to add any documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.16MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to be23THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?24MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.25right.26MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just general bundles.29THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there – <td>3</td> <td>pagination but adding in with the supplementary pagination what documents they want to</td>	3	pagination but adding in with the supplementary pagination what documents they want to
<ul> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: and they can then be responsible for attesting that any confidential information of theirs or third parties in those additional documents that they have ensured that it has been properly protected?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: Yes, indeed. I think it has been suggested by one of the parties, I think perhaps Ashurst on behalf of ITL, that the page numbering be such that you do not have to alter any of the page numbering, so that behind each annex use perhaps an A, B, C, D, system.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that would work provided that none of the appellants wants to add any documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there - how many alleged agreements are there - which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are out the subject agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	4	add in
<ul> <li>information of theirs or third parties in those additional documents that they have ensured that it has been properly protected?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: Yes, indeed. I think it has been suggested by one of the parties, I think perhaps Ashurst on behalf of ITL, that the page numbering be such that you do not have to alter any of the page numbering, so that behind each annex use perhaps an A, B, C, D, system.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that would work provided that none of the appellants wants to add any documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there – which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	5	MS. HOLMES: Yes, and
<ul> <li>that it has been properly protected?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: Yes, indeed. I think it has been suggested by one of the parties, I think perhaps Ashurst on behalf of ITL, that the page numbering be such that you do not have to alter any of the page numbering, so that behind each annex use perhaps an A, B, C, D, system.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that would work provided that none of the appellants wants to add any documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there – which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	6	THE CHAIRMAN: and they can then be responsible for attesting that any confidential
<ul> <li>MS. HOLMES: Yes, indeed. I think it has been suggested by one of the parties, I think perhaps Ashurst on behalf of ITL, that the page numbering be such that you do not have to alter any of the page numbering, so that behind each annex use perhaps an A, B, C, D, system.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that would work provided that none of the appellants wants to add any documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there – which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	7	information of theirs or third parties in those additional documents that they have ensured
10Ashurst on behalf of ITL, that the page numbering be such that you do not have to alter any of the page numbering, so that behind each annex use perhaps an A, B, C, D, system.12THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that would work provided that none of the appellants wants to add any documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.16MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to be23THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?24MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is right.25might.26MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.27THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?28MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just general bundles.29general bundles.30THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there – which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appeal	8	that it has been properly protected?
11of the page numbering, so that behind each annex use perhaps an A, B, C, D, system.12THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that would work provided that none of the appellants wants to add any13documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement14has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are15appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.16MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are17two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get18together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They19are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not20sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a21handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to22be23THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?24MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is25right.26MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.27THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?28MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just29general bundles.30THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –31which are the subject of these appeals? There m	9	MS. HOLMES: Yes, indeed. I think it has been suggested by one of the parties, I think perhaps
<ul> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that would work provided that none of the appellants wants to add any documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there are using a conference of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of agreement between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	10	Ashurst on behalf of ITL, that the page numbering be such that you do not have to alter any
13documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement14has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are15appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.16MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are17two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get18together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They19are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not20sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a21handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to22be23THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?24MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is25right.26MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.27THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?28MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just29general bundles.30THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –31which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of32agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject	11	of the page numbering, so that behind each annex use perhaps an A, B, C, D, system.
<ul> <li>has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are</li> <li>appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are</li> <li>two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get</li> <li>together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They</li> <li>are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not</li> <li>sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a</li> <li>handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to</li> <li>be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is</li> <li>right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just</li> <li>general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	12	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that would work provided that none of the appellants wants to add any
<ul> <li>appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are</li> <li>two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get</li> <li>together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They</li> <li>are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not</li> <li>sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a</li> <li>handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to</li> <li>be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is</li> <li>right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just</li> <li>general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	13	documents into any bundle other than the bundle relating to its agreement. Every agreement
<ul> <li>MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are</li> <li>two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get</li> <li>together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They</li> <li>are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not</li> <li>sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a</li> <li>handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to</li> <li>be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is</li> <li>right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just</li> <li>general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	14	has two parties obviously and in relation to some of these agreements both parties are
<ul> <li>two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get</li> <li>together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They</li> <li>are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not</li> <li>sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a</li> <li>handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to</li> <li>be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is</li> <li>right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just</li> <li>general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	15	appellants, and in some of them only one party is an appellant.
<ul> <li>together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They</li> <li>are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not</li> <li>sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a</li> <li>handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to</li> <li>be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is</li> <li>right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just</li> <li>general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	16	MS. HOLMES: It might be that in relation to each agreement and in relation to which there are
<ul> <li>are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not</li> <li>sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a</li> <li>handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to</li> <li>be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is</li> <li>right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just</li> <li>general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	17	two parties, so let us say ITL/Asda as an example, that those representing ITL and Asda get
<ul> <li>sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there – which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	18	together to agree any supplementary documents they want behind the relevant annex. They
<ul> <li>handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to</li> <li>be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is</li> <li>right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just</li> <li>general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	19	are best placed to do that and best placed to consider those documents. Madam, I am not
<ul> <li>be</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is</li> <li>right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just</li> <li>general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	20	sure how many such documents there are going to be, whether we are talking about a
<ul> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?</li> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is</li> <li>right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just</li> <li>general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	21	handful or whether we are talking about a much thicker bundle, but there does not seem to
<ul> <li>MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is</li> <li>right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just</li> <li>general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	22	be
<ul> <li>right.</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there – which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	23	THE CHAIRMAN: Am I right in thinking that there will ultimately be 15 of these bundles?
<ul> <li>MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there – which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	24	MS. HOLMES: I have to confess I have not counted but that seems about right. Yes, that is
<ul> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?</li> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there – which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	25	right.
<ul> <li>MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just</li> <li>general bundles.</li> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	26	MR. BREALEY: There are 29 bundles.
<ul> <li>29 general bundles.</li> <li>30 THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>31 which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>32 agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	27	THE CHAIRMAN: How does that work out?
<ul> <li>THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –</li> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	28	MR. BREALEY: Broadly half is Gallaher and half is ITL and then there are a few bundles, just
<ul> <li>which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of</li> <li>agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject</li> </ul>	29	general bundles.
32 agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject	30	THE CHAIRMAN: How many agreements are there – how many alleged agreements are there –
	31	which are the subject of these appeals? There may be 29 bundles, but there are quite a lot of
33 of these proceedings and which we do not therefore need a bundle for.	32	agreements between Gallaher and retailers who have not appealed, which are not the subject
	33	of these proceedings and which we do not therefore need a bundle for.

1	As I understand it, the ITL appeal covers ten agreements, five of which are with the retail
2	appellants and five of which are with other retailers. As far as the retail appellants are
3	concerned, they are appealing in each case, I think, two agreements, their agreement with
4	ITL and their agreement with Gallaher.
5	MR. BREALEY: Yes, correct.
6	THE CHAIRMAN: Which I think means that there are altogether 15 agreements which are the
7	subject of this appeal. I think that must be right. I see the attraction of Miss Holmes'
8	suggestion that everyone should be responsible for producing their own bundle. If that is
9	the case then if we need to decide in relation to the bundle in respect of an agreement
10	covered by both the ITL appeal and by the respective retail appellant, it probably makes
11	sense for the retail appellant to be responsible for that because ITL will have to be dealing
12	with the five agreements that they are appealing with retailers who are not also appellants.
13	We can work out the logistics of that.
14	The other question is if, say, Asda – not Asda because you say you have only got one
15	document – suppose ITL wants to add some document to the bundle dealing with the
16	agreement between, say, Asda and Gallaher, is that likely to happen, that there should be
17	such a desire, or is it not?
18	MR. BREALEY: Famous last words: I do not think the additional documents are going to prove
19	much of a problem. I do not think there are going to be many documents that are going to
20	be inserted.
21	THE CHAIRMAN: We may need to draw up some kind of matrix. Yes, Miss Holmes?
22	MISS HOLMES: Thank you, madam, I am grateful, I can confirm there are 15 agreements.
23	Madam, my learned friend Mr. Saini in particular has raised the issues of the documents on
24	which the OFT relies. The OFT certainly has not endeavoured to be unhelpful. The OFT has published a decision. It refers to all the documents in the annexes in one way or another in that decision, and sometimes they are referred to as a group as supporting a particular proposition, and on some occasions in some instances they are discussed more widely and in more detail.

25

26

27

28

It is also right that in the OFT's defence it has discussed some other documents in more detail. The reason for that, we say, with respect, is quite obvious because in its defence it is responding to the points put by the appellants. So when the OFT writes to say the OFT does indeed rely on each of the documents and it does say the manner in which it does so in the decision and in its defence in response to the appeals.

In this respect, I should also say that we are not talking about bundles and bundles of documents. In relation to most of the agreements I think there are at least 20 documents in each of them. I think the lowest number is 20, and it goes up to about 80 documents in relation to each agreement, so we are not talking about ten bundles of documents for these agreements. We are not talking about too much for each of the appellants to consume.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

26

27

28

29

30

My learned friend Mr. Saini I think said that he was not asking the Tribunal to make an order on this, and indeed there are pleaded issues on the use the OFT can now make of various documents in the light of the way that it has relied upon them in its decision, and it seems to us, with respect, that this is a matter which can be dealt with by submission as and when it arises during the hearing or indeed in closing submissions. In other words, madam, it seems to us that this is not particularly a matter which should be, or indeed reasonably be, dealt with in any way at this point by way of an order from the Tribunal.

14 THE CHAIRMAN: I think what we need to brush out is whether there may be a problem of the 15 parties being taken by surprise. If one of the parties' witnesses is being cross-examined and 16 they are taken by you or by Mr. Lasok, or whoever, to a particular document in the bundle 17 and some interpretation of that document is put to them as being the interpretation on which 18 the OFT relies, and they had not realised that that was what the OFT was going to say that 19 document meant and they are unable at that point to deal with it, they say, "There must be 20 some explanation", or, "I don't remember it meaning that, I can't remember", whether that 21 is going to cause hiccoughs in the process of the trial which we can somehow avoid by the 22 OFT giving some thought, at least by the time of filing its skeleton, as to whether it does 23 rely on other documents which have not so far been the subject of exchanges in a particular 24 way which it is appropriate the witness should have advance warning of in order to be able 25 to respond to it properly.

MISS HOLMES: Madam, that is certainly something the OFT is willing to give thought to. It occurs to me that in the course of cross-examination it might be, for example, that a witness gives a particular answer and that gives rise to the OFT then saying, "Hang on a moment", and there is another document which the OFT would then put to that witness. These sorts of things cannot be anticipated in advance.

THE CHAIRMAN: They cannot, and that is certainly why we indicated that to say at this stage, the OFT is bound by any particular interpretation or bound not to take any particular point that the document means something, still less that the Tribunal is thereby bound, is not helpful, as we have indicated. I think perhaps we have said enough on this. We have

1 identified the potential problem and the extent to which it may be possible to ensure the 2 smooth running of the proceedings, given the inherent unpredictability of witness actions. 3 MISS HOLMES: We certainly take the concern on board, madam. 4 Next I think there are a number of issues in relation to experts. The first is the teach-in. 5 There are a number of matters that the OFT wishes to raise at this point. The first such 6 matter is, and we are grateful for the Tribunal's indication that one of the issues for this 7 teach-in is that the Tribunal be assisted in understanding the OFT's processes in arriving at 8 its decision. The concern we have with that as things stand at the moment is that although 9 one of the OFT's experts for the purposes of these appeals, Professor Shaffer, did provide a 10 short advisory report in relation to the decision at the investigation stage, neither of the 11 experts were, if you like, involved in formulating the OFT's response, so they would be in 12 many sense – they are in a different position in some respects to other experts or the 13 Tribunal reading the decision, but they are not in an entirely different circumstance to 14 everyone else reading the decision, so I am not sure ----15 THE CHAIRMAN: The teach-in is not necessarily anything to do with the experts particularly. 16 One aspect of it is to help us to understand the issues between the experts, but the other is to 17 understand the decision and how it was arrived at, and whoever is able to explain that in a 18 neutral way is the person to send along. Whether that person is ultimately going to be a 19 witness in the case I do not think necessarily matters. 20 MISS HOLMES: We have not considered that in relation to anyone other than ----21 THE CHAIRMAN: I think the important thing is to try and get a date in the diary. What the 22 content of this will be, and therefore who needs to attend, is something we can decide nearer 23 the time. I was not envisaging it as exclusively being something which the experts would 24 attend, which all experts would attend or which would cover anything particularly 25 comprehensively in the experts' evidence. 26 MISS HOLMES: We are grateful for that indication, madam. We certainly have no objection in 27 principle to something like that occurring. As to the date of 13th September, having decided who it is that the OFT would send along, 28 29 we would need to obviously confirm, but we will of course do our best to make sure 30 whoever it was was available. 31 Perhaps I should raise one other matter before I deal with meetings between experts. That 32 is, as you may have seen from the OFT's letter, there are a relatively small number of 33 issues, but there are a number of issues which have been raised for the first time in the 34 appellants' supplementary expert reports which have recently been filed. The OFT does seek the Tribunal's permission to prepare and file very short expert reports in response to those which, at least in the case of one of its experts, it has yet to decide whether that is necessary because it has only just received the underlying data of the new analysis that has been done in relation to Mr. Walker.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

- In relation to Professor Shaffer, there are a number of discrete issues which, as I say, have been raised for the first time. They are very discrete issues which the OFT and Professor Shaffer are dealing with or considering at this stage, and in relation to which the OFT would seek to put in a supplementary report. As I say, it will of course ----
- THE CHAIRMAN: I do not wish to anticipate any dispute or whatever about this, but I wonder whether this is something that could usefully be covered by the experts when they meet and postpone the decision about whether any supplementary reports are needed until after that. This is something they can all chew over when they meet up.
- MISS HOLMES: That is possible, madam. I can say that our experts are considering it as we speak, and therefore will be in a position to act very quickly, because in effect the supplementary reports will be prepared. We were minded to ask the Tribunal to have until the end of April. In the light of that, I think we are content with that approach, because, as I say, our experts will have done what they want to do by then. As I say, they are confined issues. We are content with that approach, to prepare it and see what happens when the experts meet.
- In relation to the meeting between the experts, and having obviously heard what my learned friends for the appellants have had to say, we have no objection to further face to face meetings. Like my learned friend Mr. Brealey, we certainly do not seek to relegate any of the appellants' experts to be of subsidiary importance in that respect. Our proposal is merely to avoid wasted costs and duplication of effort.
- 25 I think in relation to the Tribunal's order today, it seems to us that perhaps the best way 26 forward is, in relation to Professor Shaffer, for him to meet with Professor Froeb in the first 27 instance, but with a view to producing something which can then, perhaps in conjunction 28 with one or two further face to face meetings, be used in order to arrive at either other 29 statements or a combined joint statement. It seems to me that this approach his going to 30 have to be a bit flexible at this stage because it is very difficult to tell what is going to come 31 out of these meetings. We are certainly content with that approach, subject to being able to 32 fit it all in, if you like.
- We may, however, be in a slightly different possibility in relation to Walker. In relation to Walker, three or four of the appellants' experts the ones which most obviously come to mind are Derek Ridyard, Dryden, Dr. Jenkins, Professor Yarrow and Dr. Decker, together obviously in the case of the last two. Three of them conduct adherence analyses. They do so in a different way. We can certainly see that it may be most helpful for Mr. Walker to meet with each of those separately. It seems to us in the case of the evidence with which Mr. Walker deals, it may indeed be quite difficult to, and almost pointless, try and have a combined endeavour because of the different approaches to the analyses which are done. We raise this. I am not sure of the kind of order which you envisage making at the end of this, but certainly we are prepared to accommodate flexible arrangements in that respect. I should briefly address availability. Ashurst, I think having consulted with each of the appellants, gave a series of proposed dates for these meetings. We have discussed the matter with each of our two experts. On the basis of those proposed dates only, Professor Shaffer, who is based in the US, but equally I should say we can see the benefit of a face to face meeting and we will try and facilitate that. He is not available until the later dates, and I think they were 19th, 20th, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26 May, so the later dates in May. That is quite late in the day, we can see that.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

30

31

32

On the other hand, Mr. Walker is available in the earlier part of May, so he can certainly get on with his meetings. In particular, he is available on the 9th, for example.

What we have not done, as I understand it, is approach either of our witnesses to see if they are available on any other dates that were not listed in Ashurst's letter.

20 THE CHAIRMAN: At the moment I do not think the Tribunal can try and micro-manage this 21 process. You all know much more about what would be useful to do than we do at the 22 moment. I envisage that what we will do is set a date by which what is going to be 23 produced is produced. How much will be produced may depend on how many meetings 24 can be arranged by that time. I would just indicate that we expect that the experts who have 25 been instructed in this case to give this matter priority, and ensure that the process between 26 now and the hearing and during the hearing proceeds smoothly. Of course, we will, as far 27 as we can, take into account people's engagements, but they have known that this is coming 28 up this year for quite a long time. If they are going to be putting themselves forward as 29 witnesses then they obviously have to make the time available.

MISS HOLMES: I am grateful for that indication. Madam, we will of course discuss the matter with our experts accordingly. I am sure, with co-operation with the appellants' experts, we can arrive at appropriate arrangements.

I think that deals with the matters in relation to expert witnesses. My learned friend
Mr. Williams is going to deal with the issue of the timetable, and I am going to skip briefly

1	to the issue of transcripts. The OFT, similarly to the submissions made by my learned
2	friend Mr. Kennelly, is similarly concerned with cost. From the information that the OFT
3	has at the moment, it is concerned that the cost of LiveNote is considerably higher than that
4	of the cost of the traditional transcript arrangements. The OFT will need to make more
5	enquiries about that in order to be sure just how much difference there is between the costs
6	of the two.
7	Save for that, the OFT is of course willing to co-operate with any arrangements, but it is
8	very concerned to confine the costs of these proceedings, which
9	THE CHAIRMAN: I think what would be useful for the Tribunal would be for somebody to
10	provide us with some information about the respective costs, a bit more of a description of
11	what LiveNote produces, and also some indication of when we would need to make a
12	decision about what we were going to have on particular days. I do not know whether they
13	need months' notice, weeks' notice or days' notice. It may be possible that we can see how
14	things work in Pay TV and learn from their experience. I do not know how quickly one has
15	to put these arrangements in place. I just have no idea, but it would be useful if somebody –
16	you can discuss this amongst yourselves afterwards
17	MR. FLYNN: We have already started making those inquiries, so we will share that, as it were.
18	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, thank you.
19	MISS HOLMES: I am grateful to my learned friend for that indication. Madam, I think those
20	were the matters for me to deal with, and Mr. Williams will deal with the issue of timetable.
21	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, indeed.
22	MR. WILLIAMS: Madam, if I can start with the Tribunal's proposal that we start on 21 st
23	September. We have got no difficulty with that.
24	The next question we have asked ourselves, madam, is whether the appeals can be properly
25	dealt with within the window which the Tribunal allocated at the CMC in October, and we
26	believe that it can. We have thought about that again in the light of the various
27	representations that appellants made on 25 th March, and since. We think that the proposal
28	we made in our letter of 25 th March needs a bit of tweaking, but, broadly, we still think that
29	it is the right approach. That is essentially a week for opening, a chunk of time for
30	witnesses of facts, a chunk of time for expert evidence, a week off for the preparation of
31	written closing and then a week for oral closings.
32	THE CHAIRMAN: A week of written closings and then a week of

1 MR. WILLIAMS: A week off to allow the parties to prepare their written closing submissions 2 which would then be presented to you in a week of oral closings in the last week of the 3 timetable. 4 THE CHAIRMAN: Yes. 5 MR. WILLIAMS: We have been thinking about this question, madam. We do have in mind that 6 although ITL proposes an increase from 40 to just over 50 days of hearing time, that is an 7 increase of 20 per cent, and it is obviously an increase in costs of the hearing of 20 per cent. 8 We do think that it is important that proper consideration is given at this stage to whether 9 the additional time is needed. 10 If I can really start with the factual evidence. 11 THE CHAIRMAN: I am not quite sure where this is heading, Mr. Williams. I do not think that 12 today we are going to go entirely map out exactly what days of the month are going to be 13 allocated to which particular witness. I am not sure that ITL was asking us to. 14 MR. WILLIAMS: I think ITL is proposing that we run on for another two weeks after the 15 window that has been allocated in October. I was dealing with that point first, madam. We 16 think that the hearing can be accommodated in the period the Tribunal allocated in October, 17 and I was going to explain how we get there. 18 Madam, we say that it is inevitable that the majority of this hearing is going to be focused 19 on witness evidence. It is an extremely witness heavy action. The appellants have put 20 forward evidence from 20 witnesses of fact. ITL has indicated an intention to cross-21 examine another four witnesses of fact, although whether all of those will attend the hearing 22 we do not yet know. There are then 11 expert witnesses. That is a total of 35 witnesses. 23 That evidence is obviously at the heart of the case. We say that that evidence can only be 24 dealt with through cross-examination of the witnesses and proper time does need to be 25 allocated to cross-examination of witnesses at the hearing. 26 The reason that I make that point is that ITL propose that relatively less time should be 27 allocated to cross-examination and relatively more time should be allocated to oral 28 argument, and I will come to their proposals in relation to that in just a minute. 29 In building up our time estimate, madam, we have taken very much a rule of thumb that 30 each factual witness may take half a day. Some witnesses will obviously take longer than 31 that, or we anticipate some will take longer than that. Some will not take half a day, and 32 that may be the position in relation to Shell's witnesses, to whom Mr. Kennelly referred 33 earlier on. On that basis, we have built up an estimate of around 15 days for the cross-34 examination of witnesses of fact, including re-examination and some time for an element of

1	over-run. To that one may need to add some time for the additional witnesses whom the
2	appellants wish to cross-examine, and we have provisionally allocated a figure of about
3	three days for that. That will take one to 18 days.
4	THE CHAIRMAN: So 15 days is for the OFT's cross-examination, is it?
5	MR. WILLIAMS: Well, the OFT's cross-examination and any cross-examination by the
6	appellants of other parties' witnesses.
7	THE CHAIRMAN: So 15 days for cross-examination of the appellants' witnesses?
8	MR. WILLIAMS: That is right, madam, yes, and re-examination.
9	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, and some over-run. So who are these additional people then?
10	MR. WILLIAMS: There is a witness from Sainsburys, Fiona Bailey, and the OFT confirmed
11	yesterday that they would be calling Miss Bailey. There are a small number of other
12	witnesses, possibly three, whom ITL and perhaps other appellants have indicated a desire to
13	cross-examine. The OFT is not calling those witnesses, so it remains to be seen where that
14	issue will land, madam. I simply flag the point.
15	THE CHAIRMAN: Have those witnesses produced statements?
16	MR. WILLIAMS: Two of the persons are not named witnesses. ITL has said that it wishes to
17	cross-examine the persons who wrote certain corporate submissions which were made to the
18	OFT. They are not witnesses so far as the OFT is concerned at all. The other person is a
19	witness for Somerfield, who produced an unsigned witness statement, or Somerfield
20	produced an unsigned witness statement, which was provided to the OFT. That is referred
21	to in the decision. The OFT is not going to call that witness, Liz Smith. As I say, it remains
22	to be seen whether the appellants will maintain their desire to cross-examine her, or indeed
23	either of the persons that I have referred to. Provisionally we have allocated three days for
24	that.
25	I think it is right to say that a number of the appellants want to cross-examine Miss Bailey.
26	That, of itself, might take some time.
27	Moving from factual evidence to expert evidence, madam, there are, as I have said, 11
28	expert witnesses, two for the OFT and nine for the various appellants. We have estimated
29	12 days in total for the cross-examination of experts. We have provisionally said that that is
30	two days for each of the OFT's experts. In relation to the appellants' experts, we anticipate
31	that some will require more cross-examination than others. Again, that is an answer to my
32	learned friend Mr. Kennelly's point. Some of the evidence is obviously more substantial
33	than others. We get to a number of 12 days for 11 witnesses.

1	Madam, our proposal is that essentially around 30 days of the hearing should be devoted to
2	cross-examination in that week, with a week at the beginning to open, and a week at the end
3	to close, albeit with the benefit of written closings which will have been provided to the
4	Tribunal beforehand.
5	THE CHAIRMAN: So a week to open, a week to prepare closing and a week to close.
6	MR. WILLIAMS: On that basis we think that the hearing can be dealt with within the window
7	the Tribunal allocated in October.
8	THE CHAIRMAN: That makes 45 days altogether. When you say a week, you mean just a four
9	day week?
10	MR. WILLIAMS: You are right, madam, it is 45 days. I think we anticipated that we would have
11	quite a lot of four day weeks in that period, but the opening and the closing weeks might be
12	full five day weeks. Although now that we are starting on the 21 st they are not going to full
13	weeks, so precisely how this will work will require some working out.
14	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes.
15	MR. WILLIAMS: Madam, one of the differences between our proposal and ITL's proposal is
16	that they say the hearing should be structured on an agreement by agreement basis with a
17	mixture of argument and evidence in relation to each agreement, starting after the opening
18	submissions. In fact, before one gets to the agreements they are proposing that witnesses
19	who deal with general issues, issues that do not relate specifically to one agreement, those
20	witnesses ought to come before the treatment of each agreement. Essentially, we do not
21	think that is practical because we think the hearing really needs to be organised by witness
22	rather than by agreement, because a number of ITL's witnesses in particular deal with more
23	than one agreement. We say that when a witness is being cross-examined it is both fairest
24	and most efficient for that witness to be cross-examined on their evidence as a whole. I do
25	not know whether you have got ITL's letter of 5 th April to hand?
26	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes.
27	MR. WILLIAMS: I can perhaps illustrate the point. If you turn to the proposed trial timetable at
28	the end of the letter, in the week commencing 3 rd October one can see Ken Culham will be
29	cross-examined in relation to ITL. I should perhaps pause to say that obviously we accept
30	that when we put together a detailed timetable, the availability of particular parties, their
31	counsel, that will need to be accommodated. We are not inflexible about that, we are
32	simply dealing with how to build the timetable up at this stage. So Ken Culham in the week
33	commencing 3 rd October.

Then going to the next page and moving down, in the top right one sees Paul Matthews, then Ken Culham again. Underneath that, Graham Hall, and in the bottom box there is David Cheyne, Cynthia Williams and Ken Culham. I think that is Ken Culham's third visit to the box.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

33

34

Over the page, top right, David Cheyne again, Cynthia Williams again, Graham Hall again, Paul Matthews again and then Ken Culham again. We are just concerned that that is going to introduce inefficiency. It is going to introduce complexity in terms of making arrangements for people to come and go, and actually it is not going to help the Tribunal when the OFT wants to say, "In your evidence last week or the week before in relation to that agreement, you made this point". We think that it is really most sensible and most efficient and also fairest for witnesses to be cross-examined in one go.

We have got no objection to the witnesses being organised as far as possible so that after the relevant ITL witness one hears from the relevant retailer witnesses. The evidence can be dealt with on an agreement by agreement basis as far as possible. What I mean by that is that if one hears from the ITL witness that deals with the Asda agreement then one might next hear from the relevant Asda witness so that the Tribunal gets the evidence on the same issues of fact as close together as possible. We have got no difficulty with that as a matter of scheduling.

THE CHAIRMAN: How would you deal with the fact that Mr. Culham seems to be dealing with a number of different agreements?

MR. WILLIAMS: In relation to Mr. Culham it would be possible for all of the retailers to go immediately after him, but we would simply suggest that Mr. Culham give his evidence and then he is followed by the relevant retailer witnesses one by one. We do say that it is going to be much more practical and helpful if Mr. Culham gives his evidence in one go rather than split across four separate occasions.

Madam, that is one difference of approach between the OFT and ITL. The other difference of approach is that ITL proposes in relation to each agreement two hours, or nearly half a day of argument in relation to each agreement before one gets into the evidence. Our view, our position, is that the key documents in the case are those that the OFT relied on in the decision. That evidence is dealt with in detail in the pleadings. Some of it is dealt with in the witness evidence, and inevitably a great deal of it will be dealt with in the crossexamination of the witnesses, so the Tribunal will see the material and it will hear from the witnesses about the material. We say that it is not a good use of time for the Tribunal to be shown the documents by way of oral presentation by counsel and then to be shown the documents – and we are talking about a large number of detailed documents – again in cross-examination. The Tribunal will hear the evidence from the witnesses. We say that that is the sensible way in which to deal with this material.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

22

23

24

25

26

Of course ITL is not going to be shut out from making submissions about documents. It will be able to do so in its opening, it will be able to do in its closing. It does occur to us that if the factual witnesses are dealt with in less than the time we have suggested then it might be possible to allocate extra time at that stage for ITL to make submissions in relation to documents the Tribunal has not seen in the course of cross-examination. We do say that really the priority has to be to deal with the cross-examination in the time available rather than to engage in oral argument about the evidence which is then going to be dealt with in cross-examination in any event.

- 12 THE CHAIRMAN: One of the points, Mr. Williams - and I do not know if you are going to deal 13 with this – that the Tribunal was very concerned about right at the very beginning of this 14 case, and which we are still concerned about, is the possibility of there being a difference of 15 opinion, or a difference of factual evidence, in relation, say, to the ITL/Asda alleged 16 agreement, not only between ITL and the OFT and Asda and the OFT, but as between Asda 17 and ITL. There may be factual issues that the Tribunal has to resolve as to where the truth 18 lies in relation to those issues as well. We are very concerned that the way the hearing is 19 structured enables those issues, if they exist, to become apparent, and I am not quite clear at 20 the moment whether your proposed structure is more likely or less likely to lead to that 21 result than ITL's proposed structure.
  - MR. WILLIAMS: Just so that I am clear, madam, it is issues between, for example, ITL and Asda rather ----
  - THE CHAIRMAN: As to the nature of terms or the alleged agreement between them. I do not pick that pairing for any other reason than convenience. I do not know whether they are in all respects marching in step as to what was agreed or not agreed between them.

MR. WILLIAMS: I think the answer to your question, madam, is that the issues can be identified and dealt with on either approach. I think all of the appellants, or a large number of them, have reserved the right to cross-examine ITL's witnesses. I think ITL has also reserved the right to cross-examine the appellants' witnesses. It is anticipated that, at a minimum, all parties will be in court when agreements to which they are party are being dealt with in evidence or argument.

Whether one organises this by witness or by agreement, and whether one deals with, if you like, argument in relation to each agreement one by one or not, I think every party is going

- to have ample opportunity to deal with the issues because they will be in court when they are dealt with in cross-examination and they will have the opportunity to cross-examine and they will have the opportunity to make submissions in relation to them. So I do not think it is a difficulty on either approach.
  - I think, madam, that really deals with the key differences in the way that our structure is built up.

The other differences that ITL has proposed, I think nearly three weeks, or three weeks, for oral closing submissions, we have taken the view that that is not necessary. If the parties have the opportunity to prepare written closings during a week off, that will give them the opportunity to pull the evidence together and to provide the Tribunal with a useful document which pulls the strands together. We say that on that approach it should not be necessary for the parties to then take three weeks orally to close their case when the Tribunal will obviously have been living with the case at that stage for something like ten weeks or more.

THE CHAIRMAN: That is less crucial in a way, because everybody is presumably going to have a bit of flexibility that if ITL actually does not take as long as it intended then people can shuffle up and come a bit earlier. That aspect of the timetabling is not so crucial as the expert for the factual witnesses aspect where it may be difficult to fill up gaps if gaps appear. You say that is being rather over-generous. I think you have two weeks down – is that right?

21 MR. WILLIAMS: Two weeks for what, madam?

22 THE CHAIRMAN: For your closing submissions.

23 MR. WILLIAMS: No, two days.

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

24

25

26

27

28

29

THE CHAIRMAN: I see, it is only part of the week – two days, yes. ITL has got five days, the appealing retailers have got six days to share among them, the OFT has five, and then there is some time for reply. Was it Mr. Thompson who was concerned that he wanted two days for his closing. So there seems to be a difference of opinion as to whether six days would be enough if you take that route. What you be proposing as a realistic time for closing submissions?

MR. WILLIAMS: What we said in our letter, madam, is that we mirror the approach that we proposed to openings, that the OFT should have a day and a half and the appellants should have three and a half days. As I say, this would be elaborating on a written submission. We think that in a case like this, a written submission which pulls the strands together, pulls the evidence together, is really going to be key.

I think there is one other point that I should make in terms of the detail of ITL's proposal. What they have said about each agreement is that there should be two hours of introductory submissions from ITL, half a day of cross-examination by the OFT in relation to that agreement, and that is, if you like, irrespective of how much evidence there is, and then 30 to 60 minutes for further cross-examination by the appellants, and we say that does not strike the right balance in a case like this where (a) the OFT obviously will need to crossexamine the relevant witnesses thoroughly in order to put the documents to them, but also the suggestion that the OFT might have half a day but the other appellants might have 60 minutes just does not seem to us to strike the right balance. Realistically, in relation to the appellants' witnesses, the majority of the time is going to be occupied by cross-examination by the OFT, and the timetable needs to recognise that.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

We are not being prescriptive at this stage about how long the appellants might want to cross-examine each other's witnesses for, what we are saying is that the specific proposal put forward by ITL seems to us to strike the wrong balance. What we have proposed is a broader timetable within which there is a degree of flexibility. What we would propose, if the Tribunal were to agree with us, is that we would take that away and then build up a detailed timetable, much like ITL's, taking into account the availability of witnesses and counsel and all the rest of it, but built and structured in the way that we proposed. We simply thought it was most sensible to do that once we have a clear steer from the Tribunal as to how they want to deal with this.

THE CHAIRMAN: What you are asking us to indicate today is really whether we prefer your approach of witness by witness or the ITL approach of agreement by agreement, whether we at this point think it would be helpful to have a mixture of evidence and opening explanation or submission or description or something to deal with the hearing in chunks like that rather than the more conventional opening, all the evidence rattled through, then closings pulling it all together.

27 MR. WILLIAMS: Yes, I think in relation to that latter proposal by ITL, whether effectively half 28 a day for ITL to open it and half a day for us to cross-examine, whether that would be the 29 right balance, because it seems to us that it would not, madam. Yes, madam, as you say, 30 our proposal is the conventional format really against the background of very extensive 31 written pleadings, submissions, and so on and so forth, which really will entirely bring to 32 the surface the issues before the Tribunal starts the hearing. To add to your list, madam, the other issue is whether the Tribunal anticipates running on 33 after 9th December, whether the Tribunal anticipates that is going to be necessary, just in 34

1 terms of people organising their diaries, and so on. As I say, we do not think that is 2 necessary. 3 THE CHAIRMAN: As to the point that I raised in my preliminary remarks about the order in 4 which the experts should be called, do you have anything to say on that? 5 MR. WILLIAMS: The only point that occurs to me immediately, madam, is that Professor 6 Shaffer is based in the United States. At the moment, I have not quite thought when he will 7 be here. He will need to be here for the expert evidence generally, so it may not make very 8 much difference to his arrangements. I do not know if we have a strong view. Can I just 9 take instructions? (After a pause) I think we had anticipated that the appellants would go 10 first, but if the Tribunal thinks it would be more useful to adopt the sequence that you have 11 described, madam, then I do not think we feel strongly about that. 12 THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, thank you very much. Is there anything that any of the appellants wants 13 to say in reply to anything that the OFT has said? 14 MR. BREALEY: Can I just have a few minutes on three issues. The first is the timetable, if it is 15 still before you, madam. I think the Tribunal has the rationale for why we have proposed 16 what we have proposed, but I could quickly go through it and flag a few things. The 17 opening submissions are going to be quite short per appellant. It is one and a half days for 18 ITL and then short opening submissions for each retailer appellant, and I think that the week 19 for opening submissions is broadly accepted by the parties. 20 The reason for day 6, if I can call it day 6, Geoff Good and Roger Batty, was to give the 21 OFT the opportunity to cross-examine the authors of these trading agreements. They 22 explain in their witness statements what the purpose was. We have given a day there. The 23 OFT say they want half a day per witness, and so that is why it is a day. We propose to call 24 them. The OFT want to cross-examine them. It seemed to us that they were not retailer 25 specific, they are more general evidence. 26 Then if we go to Shell, days seven and eight, in my respectful submission, to structure an 27 appeal like this on a witness by witness basis when the decision is essentially agreement by 28 agreement, with the greatest respect it is not a sensible way of pursuing this at all. 29 If one takes Shell, for example, the way that we have tried to structure it is that on day seven 30 that is ITL's appeal, and we do think it is of benefit to the Tribunal that we at least flag for 31 an hour or an hour and a half what are the key issues as far as ITL is concerned in the Shell 32 appeal. The nature of the trading agreement may be different to other retailers. There may 33 be certain documents that we say have been taken wholly out of context. We just want to 34 emphasise certain key points to put the Shell appeal in its context.

1 We have got a day there, so we have got an hour and a half, two hours, however long it 2 takes, and then Mr. Culham is half a day, which is exactly what the OFT want for 3 Mr. Culham. 4 We cannot then hide behind the fact that Shell are also appealing and they have got to have 5 their say. This time it is only one day and it may well be that they will make short 6 submissions but there should be enough time for the OFT to cross-examine the Shell 7 witnesses and for Shell to put forward its case on the Gallaher appeal. 8 That is the way we have tried to structure it. Mr. Williams says it is not fair to Mr. Culham 9 and the witnesses. They are our witnesses and we are quite content for them to come on 10 one, two or three days, depending on how many retailers they were concerned with. We 11 just feel that it is going to be far more beneficial to the Tribunal for the parties to be able to put the separate agreements in context, emphasise certain documents and then the Tribunal 12 have the witnesses specific to the appeal. 13 14 The OFT say they want 15, 20 days to cross-examine the witnesses. That is exactly what 15 this structure gives them. They are not losing out on time to cross-examine. They are, to be 16 fair, losing out on time on their expert evidence, the ability to cross-examine on the expert 17 evidence. We have got eight days, whereas I understand the OFT want 12 days. It may be 18 that that can be accommodated ----19 THE CHAIRMAN: I think those 12 days included their own witnesses. 20 MR. BREALEY: It may be that I have got that wrong. 21 THE CHAIRMAN: What I understood Mr. Williams to be concerned about is what is this two 22 hours that you are going to have at the outset of tackling each agreement. You have got 23 time for your opening submissions, you are going to have extensive closing submissions. 24 Are you to be effectively allowed a third chance to put your case in respect of each of the 25 agreements or is it going to be a more neutral setting of the context? 26 MR. BREALEY: Essentially, what we are trying to do is open the case on each retailer. The 27 opening submissions right at the beginning, I do not believe will really concern the guts of 28 each retailer appeal. It will be dealing with object, theory of harm. We have got one and a 29 half days to open. It is very unlikely that we will touch on the nuances on each appeal. 30 Normally, if a party is found guilty of infringing the Act it would open its case on the 31 documents and then call its witnesses for cross-examination. We do feel that it is fair to 32 Imperial and will be of benefit to the Tribunal if we can set the scene. If the OFT want to reply in the time available it can certainly do so. It can manage whatever time it wants. If 33 34 we look at, for example, the Co-Op, where there three days, days 9, 10 and 11, the OFT is

1 going to have the lion's share of those three days. It has got four witnesses to cross-2 examine. It can, if it wants, spend half an hour replying to any opening we make. I do 3 repeat the point, it is not a sensible way of approaching it just simply to call a witness as if, 4 "That is the witness, we all know what the case is about". I am sure that some of the 5 nuances will be lost on why the appeals are slightly different. 6 That is why we have tried to structure it as we have. 7 Just two more points. On the confidentiality issue, I was a bit vague about that, I think we 8 do see the sense of each party sending the other parties a small bundle of documents and 9 redacting them, if necessary, and then those redactions can form part of the ring. If we have 10 got any other confidentiality issues we can try and sort them out at a later date. 11 Lastly, on the skeleton and the experts, I am missing the end date by which the experts have got to prepare their joint report, but I would say that a week for ITL to submit its skeleton 12 13 after the joint report, I would ask for a bit more time than that. 14 THE CHAIRMAN: Very well. I see what the time is. It may be a good idea to break there and 15 come back after the short adjournment. What I envisage doing is that over the short 16 adjournment we will put together the kind of dates that we envisage including in an order of 17 the various things that need to be done, and we will then propose those on the basis that 18 unless someone has a really, really serious problem with them, that is our conclusion as to what the best way to proceed is. I am not talking there about the 13th September date, I am 19 20 talking about the setting of the timetabling at the moment. 21 Mr. Kennelly? 22 MR. KENELLY: Madam, if I may, just before you rise, stress one further point. Obviously, 23 again in the interests of costs, this may be something that the Tribunal is going to consider 24 over the short adjournment, from Shell's point of view it would be very useful if we did 25 have specific dates on which we would be told that we make our closing submissions. So 26 we are looking for specific dates not only for our witnesses, but also for the particular date 27 allocated to us for our closing submissions. Otherwise it will be necessary to ask Miss 28 Rose, for example, to attend over a five day period when only one day is necessary. That 29 will have a significant effect on the costs. As I said earlier, that is of great importance to 30 Shell. 31 THE CHAIRMAN: We are not going today to set the detailed timetable for the actual hearing. I 32 was talking about the timetable for the lodging of the skeletons, the bundle and that kind of 33 thing, leading up to the hearing. As far as the timetable for the hearing is concerned, what we envisage doing is to indicate where we are as to some general principles and then leave

40

1	it to the parties to work further on producing a draft which would make those dates more
2	specific. I think, with the witnesses of fact – the expert witnesses may want to be present all
3	the time anyway – it may well be advisable for them, if possible, to keep clear the day
4	before and the day after the specific date on which they are supposed to appear so that there
5	is some flexibility built into the timetable.
6	We will rise for the moment and then come back at 2.15.
7	(Adjourned for a short time)
8	THE CHAIRMAN: This is where we think we have got to, subject to people really being very
9	unhappy. On the interventions point the parties will notify the Tribunal, copied to all the
10	other parties, if they wish to apply to intervene in any appeal in respect of which they have
11	not yet made an application, and those letters should come to us by close of play on $15^{th}$
12	April.
13	Asda's legal representatives will kindly then draw up an order for the Tribunal to make
14	granting the existing uncontested applications, extending time for the new applications and
15	granting them, and to provide a draft to the Tribunal, preferably agreed amongst the parties,
16	by close of play on 6 th May.
17	As far as the experts' joint statement is concerned, the parties should lodge with the
18	Tribunal a statement or statements setting out the matters on which the expert witnesses
19	agree and on which they disagree by close of play on Monday, 23 rd May. We are not going
20	to specify the scope and number of any face to face meetings. We agree with those parties
21	who say that it is definitely preferable there are face to face meetings amongst the experts in
22	whatever permutations you think would be helpful, and we hope that their other
23	commitments will make that possible, but in any event the statement must be available by
24	23 rd May in order to allow enough time for the appellants to take it into account in their
25	skeleton arguments.
26	So far as bundles are concerned, as regards the bundles of the contemporaneous documents
27	in relation to each agreement, we are attracted by the idea that the parties bear responsibility
28	for preparing their own bundles based on the statement of objection annexes. ITL should
29	produce the five necessary bundles relating to its agreements with First Quench, Somerfield,
30	Sainsbury, TNS Stores and TN Retail; and each of the retail appellants will be responsible
31	for the two bundles relating to their agreements with ITL and Gallaher.
32	So by 22 nd April all parties should notify any other appellant if they wish to add any
33	documents into a bundle which that party is collating, and also provide a copy of that
34	document. Every party which adds or asks to add to a bundle is responsible for identifying its own or any third party's confidential information in that document and ensuring that that information is appropriately protected.

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

Hard copies of these bundles should be produced by 6th May. Whether you do this by recopying the lot, or by providing each other only with the additional documents within instructions to the recipient as to where to insert them is up to you, and you will need to liaise with the Tribunal Registry about access to the Tribunal's copies of the statement of objections' annexes in order to add in the documents. So that is to be all sorted out by 6th May. Each party is also to produce electronic versions of the bundles for which they are responsible by 13th May.

For the authorities bundles, ITL will produce these by 30th June. The OFT is to supplement those bundles, if necessary, by 7th July to refer to any additional authorities which appear for the first time in their skeleton.

There will be core bundles as well, including the pleadings and the witness statements without any appendices, and these should probably be produced by ITL and lodged by 7th September, if that is acceptable. All appellants are then responsible for producing any additional bundle of any documents that they want specifically to refer to in their submissions, but we do not want a complete re-copy of all the annexes to the pleadings and the witness statements, we have access to those in our own files which you have already provided. So any additional bundles that need to be in court should really only be those annexes or documents that you are going to take us to, or the witness to. Skeletons: we do want exchange of skeletons to be concluded by 30th June. We, therefore, propose that ITL lodge their skeleton by 10 am on 3rd June, the retail appellants lodge their skeletons by close of play on 17th June, and the OFT by close of play on 30th June. We would also like, by 30th June, please, electronic Word versions of the main bodies of the pleadings and the skeletons and probably the witness statements as well, if that is not too difficult – as I say, by  $30^{\text{th}}$  June.

The teach-in date: having consulted amongst ourselves, I am afraid the 13th is the only day that we can really do, so Messrs. Decker and Yarrow will have to, I am afraid, divide their forces between the Tribunal and Oxford.

The hearing will start on 21st September, and in the order that we are going to produce we will attach a schedule of precisely which days we are going to be sitting in each week. On the structure of the hearing, we greatly prefer ITL's approach of dealing with one agreement at a time, even though this involves calling witnesses more than once. We are not convinced that this, in fact, will result in the hearing being longer than it would using

1	the OFT's approach. We also agree that it would be useful for each appellant to open
2	briefly, or for ITL to open briefly the case on each agreement as we go along, especially
3	since there is going to be no evidence in chief and each agreement is allegedly different
4	from the others.
5	On the length of the closing submissions, we do not regard the number of days proposed by
6	ITL as untoward. If the parties are able to speed up then we will finish sooner, as everyone
7	will be expected to follow on from the previous speaker, but we would prefer at the moment
8	not to limit this in the manner that was suggested.
9	We, therefore, would ask the parties to firm up on the timetable for the hearing using the
10	ITL structure once we have made the order setting out the exact days when we are going to
11	be sitting. This will enable counsel and witnesses to make arrangements. However, we
12	expect witnesses, if at all possible, to be available the day before and the day after their
13	allotted days so as to incorporate some flexibility in the trial progress so that there will not
14	be any gaps or delays if things fall short or over-run.
15	As to transcripts, Asda has kindly agreed to provide us with some information on the
16	relative costs of LiveNote and the more traditional transcripts, give us some clear idea of
17	exactly what is involved, and also how soon we have actually to make a decision about what
18	we are going to have, and we will then take it on from there.
19	I think that is about everything. Are there any further submissions that people want to
20	make?
21	MR. BREALEY: Not from Imperial, thank you.
22	THE CHAIRMAN: Mr. Thompson?
23	MR. THOMPSON: The one area of slight concern we have is about the nature of the teach-in.
24	As we understood it from the exchange with the OFT representatives, it is now envisaged
25	that it may be more of a presentation by the OFT, and obviously that raises some concerns
26	as to how, without in any way criticising the OFT, objective such a presentation would be,
27	and also what forewarning we might have and whether what is envisaged will actually be
28	put in a witness statement, or who it might be who would make such a presentation.
29	THE CHAIRMAN: I think the answer is at the moment, let us just get the date in the diary and
30	we will decide when we are a little bit further on as to what is likely to be involved. The
31	only comfort I can give you is that on the one occasion when we have done this in past,
32	which was in the Telecoms context – I do not think you were involved in that – which
33	involved just being shown how the model had been produced. It was actually extremely
34	helpful for everybody who attended. It was not done at all in a contentious way. In fact, the

1	case settled so it did not come to any final decision. It did work out as being helpful for
2	everybody and not at all problematic, although those sorts of concerns were also expressed
3	as to how it was going to work.
4	MR. THOMPSON: I do not think we want to do anything that would hamper the preparation of
5	the hearing. It is just a marker.
6	THE CHAIRMAN: I know these things raise these sorts of concerns and we are alive to that but,
7	closer to 13 th September but in advance of 13 th September, I am sure we will be able to
8	come up with a useful day's events which whoever wants to attend in listening mode can
9	attend from amongst counsel and the other witnesses, and we will see what is most useful to
10	do.
11	MR. THOMPSON: I am grateful. The other issue I had was about the core bundles, but I think
12	that has already been touched on. Issues such the decision and common documents that are
13	referred to in the decision, but not in relation to any specific agreement, that is a matter that
14	ITL or the OFT can sort out.
15	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, that must be right.
16	MR. THOMPSON: I am grateful.
17	THE CHAIRMAN: Very well. Thank you very much everybody. We have got through a great
18	deal, I think, and we are now hopefully on train for an exciting autumn.
19 20	